scientists and clinicians in education psychology psychiatry pediatrics speech pathology and neurology In the early chapters are discussions of brain function as it relates to learning and learning disabilities with many implications for better understanding of the neurology of behavior These chapters are followed by an articulate consideration of neuropsychological disorders definition identification and diagnosis of the cognitive dysfunctions that underlie learning disabilities There is an analysis of the role of perception as well as of the significance of impaired sensory and motor cognitive processes The concluding chapters comprise a clear erudite yet practical discourse on the spectrum of language disorders including the spoken read and written forms Dr Gaddes provides a constructive review of what it means when children have aphasia of how this language disorder has implications for other types of learning He elucidates and evaluates the status of our knowledge relative to childhood dyslexia and dysgraphia This analysis holds promise for clarification of the issues that have been disconcerting especially to educators and psychologists
