The Transition Study of Postsocialist China Wing-Chung Ho, 2010 There is no denying that China has experienced and is still experiencing radical changes generally initiated by the vibrant market driven economy that began in the late 1970s The question remains however of what has happened to those who just a few decades before experienced pride and power in being part of the proletariat How do they make sense of the past and face up to the uncertainties of the future This book presents an anthropological investigation into their lives and memories in order to understand their situation Presently a working class neighborhood in

Shanghai Cucumber Lane was in the 1960s a well known socialist model community being transformed from an urban slum in the 1940s The neighborhood was further recast as a civilized small community in the 1990s Based on oral histories as well as ethnographic observations and pertinent historical materials this book portrays the ways the Chinese have been making sense of and coping with radical changes during a period punctuated by shifts in political priorities vicissitudes in ideological orientation changes in the way they conceive of their relationship with the state and enterprises the de politicization of social identities the rise and fall of collectivism and the explosive vitality of the new market economy Politics and Drama

shamanic practice Thoroughly documenting this process Buyandelger situates it as part of a global phenomenon comparing the rise of shamanism in liberalized Mongolia to its similar rise in Africa and Indonesia In doing so she offers a sophisticated analysis of the way economics politics gender and other factors influence the spirit world and the crucial workings of cultural memory An excellent addition to studies in the area emotive accessible and well researched London School of Economics

Georgian and Soviet Claire P. Kaiser, 2023-01-15 Georgian and Soviet investigates the constitutive capacity of Soviet nationhood and empire The Soviet republic of Georgia located in the mountainous Caucasus region received the same nation building template as other national republics of the USSR Yet Stalin s Georgian heritage intimate knowledge of Caucasian affairs and personal involvement in local matters as he ascended to prominence left his homeland to confront a distinct set of challenges after his death in 1953 Utilizing Georgian archives and Georgian language sources Claire P Kaiser argues that the postwar and post Stalin era was decisive in the creation of a Georgian Georgia This was due not only to the peculiar role played by the Stalin cult in the construction of modern Georgian nationhood but also to the subsequent changes that de Stalinization wrought among Georgia s populace and in the unusual imperial relationship between Moscow and Tbilisi Kaiser describes how the Soviet empire could be repressive yet also encourage opportunities for advancement for individual careers as well as for certain nationalities The creation of national hierarchies of entitlement could be as much about local and republic level imperial imaginations as those of a Moscow center Georgian and Soviet reveals that the entitled republic level national hierarchies that the Soviet Union created laid a foundation for the claims of nationalizing states that would emerge from the empire s wake in 1991 Today Georgia still grapples with the legacies of its Soviet century and the Stalin factor likewise lingers as new generations of Georgians reevaluate the symbiotic relationship between Soso Jughashvili and his native land Kazakhstan - Ethnicity, Language and Power Bhavna Dave, 2007-09-13 Kazakhstan is emerging as the

Kazakhstan is one of the most ethnically diverse countries in the region with very substantial non Kazakh and non Muslim minorities Its political regime has used elements of political clientelism and neo traditional practices to bolster its rule Drawing from extensive ethnographic research interviews and archival materials this book traces the development of national identity and statehood in Kazakhstan focusing in particular on the attempts to build a national state It argues that Russification and Sovietization were not simply top down processes that they provide considerable scope for local initiatives and that Soviet ethnically based affirmative action policies have had a lasting impact on ethnic lite formation and the rise of a distinct brand of national consciousness
