Language, the Singer and the Song Richard J. Watts, Franz Andres Morrissey, 2019-01-31 The relationship between language and music has much in common rhythm structure sound metaphor Exploring the phenomena of song and performance this book presents a sociolinguistic model for analysing them Based on ethnomusicologist John Blacking's contention that any song performed communally is a folk song regardless of its generic origins it argues that folk song to a far greater extent than other song genres displays communal or inclusive types of performance The defining feature of folk song as a multi modal instantiation of music and language is its participatory nature making it ideal for sociolinguistic analysis In this sense a folk song is the product of specific types of developing social interaction whose major purpose is the construction of a temporally and locally based community Through repeated instantiations this can lead to disparate communities of practice which over time develop sociocultural registers and a communal stance towards aspects of meaningful events in everyday lives that become typical of a discourse community The ^ACountry Music Reader Travis D. Stimeling, 2015-01-02 The Country Music Reader provides an anthology of primary source readings encompassing the history of country music from circa 1900 to the present offering firsthand insight into the changing role of country music within both the music industry and American culture Announcement Columbia University. nature was born launching a long career as a documentary maker As he travels the length of the eighty mile river he uses his years of travelling the world and his work on nature films to place the fauna and flora he encounters along the Tees in a wider context He weaves together strands of personal experience nature writing botany geology and history with an account of the impact of human industry and agriculture on the Tees and its valley Steel River is thus a natural and social history of a remarkable river but also presents the Tees as a universal exemplar of environmental degradation allowing the author to reflect on and offer prescriptions for the broken state of the natural world after 10 000 years of human activity
