Social Functions Of Literature:

Social Functions of Literature Paul Debreczeny, 1997 This study of the effect of literature on readers both as individuals and as members of social groups focuses on Russia's national poet Alexander Pushkin as a model for investigating the aesthetic and social functions of literature The individual reader's response to the literary text is demonstrated in Part One through a broad range of memoirs diaries and correspondences in which Russian readers recorded their reactions to Pushkin Among the reactions are testimonies that Pushkin's works helped readers form their personalities provided cathartic relief in times of stress and aided them in releasing their suppressed emotions In his analysis the author draws on various psychological approaches from studies of perception through developmental psychology to psychoanalysis Part Two exposes the extent to which individuals' aesthetic responses are conditioned by their social environment Against the backdrop of Russian social history in the early nineteenth century the author describes the dissemination of new aesthetic norms notably the relations of the Russian literary elite to lowbrow and middlebrow groups In this context he analyzes a number of Pushkin imitations with Pushkin's responses to them and links Nikolai Gogol's development as a writer to the social groups surrounding Pushkin Among the other topics discussed are the popularization of Pushkin on the stage and his inclusion in school textbooks and anthologies The aura surrounding the personality of an author is the subject of Part Three in which the author shows how Pushkin's death in a duel with a foreigner contributed to his emergence as a symbol of the Russian nation and how deep seated anxiety about national identity gave rise to the Pushkin myth and to the canonization of the poet as martyr The author also describes how the combined effect of the widespread reading of Pushkin's work and his legend as martyr allowed him to remain Russia's main mythic figure despite the Soviet Union's attempts to supplant him with Lenin Throughout the book theoretical arguments are buttressed by close readings of Pushkin's works especially The Prisoner of the Caucasus Eugene Onegin Poltava Egyptian Nights and several lyric poems

Encyclopedia of Contemporary Literary Theory Irene Rima Makaryk, 1993-01-01 The last half of the twentieth century has seen the emergence of literary theory as a new discipline As with any body of scholarship various schools of thought exist and sometimes conflict within it I R Makaryk has compiled a welcome guide to the field Accessible and jargon free the Encyclopedia of Contemporary Literary Theory provides lucid concise explanations of myriad approaches to literature that have arisen over the past forty years Some 170 scholars from around the world have contributed their expertise to this volume Their work is organized into three parts In Part I forty evaluative essays examine the historical and cultural context out of which new schools of and approaches to literature arose

The essays also discuss the uses and limitations of the various schools and the key issues they address Part II focuses on individual theorists It provides a more detailed picture of the network of scholars not always easily pigeonholed into the categories of Part I This second section analyses the individual achievements as well as the influence of specific scholars and places them in a larger critical context Part III deals with the vocabulary of literary theory It identifies significant complex terms places them in context and explains their origins and use Accessibility is a key feature of the work By avoiding jargon providing mini bibliographies and cross referencing throughout Makaryk has provided an indispensable tool for literary theorists and historians and for all scholars and students of contemporary criticism and culture

Charting Literary Urban Studies Jens Martin Gurr, 2020-12-10 Guided by the multifaceted relations between city and text Charting Literary Urban Studies Texts as Models of and for the City attempts to chart the burgeoning field of literary urban studies by outlining how texts in varying degrees function as both representations of the city and as blueprints for its future development The study addresses questions such as these How do literary texts represent urban complexities and how can they capture the uniqueness of a given city How do literary texts simulate layers of urban memory and how can they reinforce or help dissolve path dependencies in urban development What role can literary studies play in interdisciplinary urban research Are the blueprints or recipes for urban development that most quickly travel around the globe such as the creative city the green city or the smart city really always the ones that best solve a given problem Or is the global spread of such travelling urban models not least a matter of their narrative packaging In answering these key questions this book also advances a literary studies contribution to the general theory of models tracing a heuristic trajectory from the analysis of literary texts as representations of urban developments to an analysis of literary strategies in planning documents and other pragmatic non literary texts

Understanding Complex Urban Systems: Multidisciplinary Approaches to Modeling Christian Walloth, Jens Martin Gurr, J. Alexander Schmidt, 2013-12-14 Understanding Complex Urban Systems takes as its point of departure the insight that the challenges of global urbanization and the complexity of urban systems cannot be understood let alone managed by sectoral and disciplinary approaches alone

But while there has recently been significant progress in broadening and refining the methodologies for the quantitative modeling of complex urban systems in deepening the theoretical understanding of cities as complex systems or in illuminating the implications for urban planning there is still a lack of well founded conceptual thinking on the methodological foundations and the strategies of modeling urban complexity across the disciplines Bringing together experts from the fields of urban and spatial planning ecology urban geography real estate analysis organizational cybernetics stochastic optimization and literary studies as well as specialists in various systems approaches and in transdisciplinary methodologies of urban analysis the volume seeks to advance the discussion on multidisciplinary approaches to urban modeling While engaging with the state of the art in their respective fields the contributions are specifically written for both experts from a broad range of disciplines as well as for urban practitioners who feel the need for new approaches given the uncertainty of current developments

The Necessary Unity of Opposites Brian Russell

Graham, 2011-01-01 For Frye the history of ideas is characterized by sets of opposing views which result in repeated cyclical movements in that history In this study Brian Russell Graham argues that Frye's own thinking transcends the ordinary history of ideas and offers what might be thought of as a dialectical and suprahistorical alternative As Graham points out much of Frye's thought is focused on secular concerns and within that context his dialectical and suprahistorical thinking is post partisan a feature which also signifies and explains Frye's appeal Graham contends it is the thinking of William Blake specifically his conceptions of innocence and experience which provides the inspiration for Frye's dialectical thinking Graham systematically addresses the main areas of Frye's work Blake's poetry secular literature education and work politics and Scripture In following each of these themes The Necessary Unity of Opposites expertly clarifies Frye's dialectical thinking while drawing attention to its structural connection to Blake Frye's great preceptor

Central and Eastern European Literary Theory and the West Michał Mrugalski, Schamma Schahadat, Irina Wutsdorff, 2022-12-05 Literary theory flourished in Central and Eastern Europe throughout the twentieth century but its relation to Western literary scholarship is complex This book sheds light on the entangled histories of exchange and influence both within the region known as Central and Eastern Europe and between the region and the West The exchange of ideas between scholars in the East and West was facilitated by both personal and institutional relations both official and informal encounters For the longest time however intellectual exchange was thwarted by political tensions that led to large parts of Central and Eastern Europe being isolated from the West A few literary theories nevertheless made it into Western scholarly discourses via exiled scholars Some of these scholars such as Mikhail Bakhtin become widely known in the West and their thought was transposed onto new Western cultural contexts others such as Olga Freidenberg were barely noticed outside of Russian and Poland This volume draws attention to the schools circles and concepts that shaped the development of theory in Central and Eastern Europe as well as the histoire croise the history of translations transformations and migrations that conditioned its relationship with the West

Investigating the Role of Emotions, Self-Centered Motives, and Social Norms Corrado Corradi-Dell'Acqua, Leonie Koban, Susanne Leiberg, Patrik Vuilleumier, Ernst Fehr, 2016-09-28 Human behavior and decision making is subject to social and motivational influences such as emotions norms and self other regarding preferences The identification of the neural and psychological mechanisms underlying these factors is a central issue in psychology behavioral economics and social neuroscience with important clinical social and even political implications However despite a continuously growing interest from the scientific community the processes underlying these factors as well as their ontogenetic and phylogenetic development have so far remained elusive In this Research Topic we collect articles that provide challenging insights and stimulate a fruitful controversy on the question of what determines social behavior Indeed over the last decades research has shown that introducing a social context to otherwise abstract tasks has diverse effects on social behavior On the one hand it may induce individuals to act irrationally for instance to refuse money but on the other hand it improves individuals reasoning in that formerly difficult abstract problems can be easily solved These lines of research led to distinct although not necessarily mutually exclusive models for socially driven behavioral changes For instance a popular theoretical framework interprets human behavior as a result of a conflict between cognition and emotion with the cognitive system promoting self interested choices and the emotional system triggered by the social context operating against them Other theories favor social norms and deontic heuristics in biasing human reasoning and encouraging choices that are sometimes in conflict with one's interest Few studies attempted to disentangle between these as well as other models As a consequence although insightful results arise from specific domains tasks a comprehensive theoretical framework is still missing Furthermore studies employing neuroimaging techniques have begun to shed some light on the neural substrates involved in social behavior implicating consistently although not exclusively portions of the limbic system the insular and the prefrontal cortex In this context a challenge for present research lies not only in further mapping the brain structures implicated in social behavior or in describing in detail the functional interaction between these structures but in showing how the implicated networks relate to different theoretical models This is Research Topic hosted by members of the Swiss National Center of Competence in Research Affective Sciences Emotions in Individual Behaviour and Social Processes We collected contributions from the international community which extended the current knowledge about the psychological and neural structures underlying social behavior and decision making In particular we encouraged submissions from investigators arising from different domains psychology behavioral economics affective sciences etc implementing different techniques behavior electrophysiology neuroimaging brain stimulations on different populations neurotypical adults children brain damaged or psychiatric patients etc Animal studies are also included as the data reported are of high comparative value Finally we also welcomed submissions of meta analytical articles mini reviews and perspective papers which offer provocative and insightful interpretations of the recent literature in the field
