Social Work Education in India: A Historical Understanding

Introduction

Social work has a history of evolution more than hundred years (Jennissen, 2010). Its global emergence in the charity-based social welfare services of missionaries was in the UK (Carter, P., Jeffs, T., & Smith, M., 1989). Missionaries spread across the USA shifted voluntary welfare services to an organized work scheme. These American missionaries entered India with an American approach to social work practice (Loewenberg, F. M., 1998). Indian social work practice over the period spread across all states through partially institutional establishments. This chapter describes the historical context of social work, Western social work practice, social work as a profession, identity of the social work profession and social work education. The new ideologies of the West are affecting Indian social work education and practice.

Historical Development of Social Work Education and Practice in India

In the period 1820-1830, British missionaries started social service activities in Bengal Presidency. It was led by social reformers such as Ram Mohan Roy, Ishwar Chandra Vidyasagar and others. Gopal Krishna Gokhale founded the Servants of India Society in 1905 and led the way in using reason and scientific approach in finding solutions to problems. In 1924, the Social Service League started a training class to train a cadre of volunteers for social development. They offered a series of lectures on social subjects. The students had to carry out various social work activities in the city as voluntary unpaid services (Desai A., 2002).

American missionary Clifford Manshardt initiated professional social work in India. In the first year in India, he stayed in Ahmadnagar district of Bombay province. He studied rural India and extended his work in industrial labour communities in the Byculla area of Mumbai (erstwhile Bombay) city. After 10 years of his service in local communities, he was invited to be an adviser to the trustees of Sir Dorabji Tata Trust (Pathak, 1981). Professionalisation of social work education was started under
