Songhay Benin Burkina Faso Mali Niger:

Language and Development in Africa H. Ekkehard Wolff, 2016-05-26 Development is based on communication through language. With more than two thousand languages being used in Africa, language becomes a highly relevant factor in all sectors of political, social, cultural, and economic life. This important sociolinguistic dimension hitherto remains underrated and under researched in Western mainstream development studies. The book discusses the resourcefulness of languages both local and global in view of the ongoing transformation of African societies as much as for economic development. From a novel applied African sociolinguistics perspective, it analyses the continuing effects of linguistic imperialism on postcolonial African societies in particular regarding the educational sector through imposed hegemonic languages such as Arabic and the ex-colonial languages of European provenance. It offers a broad interdisciplinary scientific approach to the linguistic dimensions of sociocultural modernisation and economic development in Africa, written for both the non-linguistically trained reader as much as for the linguistically trained researcher and language practitioner.

The Sociolinguistics of Development in Africa Paulin G. Djité, 2008 This book is an analysis of modernisation informed by the place of language in education, health, the economy, and governance in the African context. It paints a wide canvas of Africa in its different facets and shows how language is used as an instrument to deny access to socioeconomic and political emancipation.

International Encyclopedia of Linguistics William Frawley, 2003-05 The International Encyclopedia of Linguistics 2nd Edition encompasses the full range of the contemporary field of linguistics, including historical, comparative, formal, mathematical, functional, and philosophical linguistics, with special attention given to interrelations within branches of linguistics and to relations of linguistics with other disciplines. Areas of intersection with the social and behavioral sciences, ethnolinguistics, sociolinguistics, psycholinguistics, and behavioral linguistics receive major coverage, along with interdisciplinary work in language and literature, mathematical linguistics, computational linguistics, and applied linguistics. Longer entries in the International Encyclopedia of Linguistics ranging up to four thousand words survey the major fields of study, for example, anthropological linguistics, history of linguistics, semantics, and phonetics. Shorter entries treat specific topics within these fields, such as code switching, sound symbolism, and syntactic features. Other short entries define and discuss technical terms used within the various subfields or provide sketches of the careers of important scholars in the history of linguistics, such as Leonard Bloomfield, Roman Jakobson, and Edward Sapir. A major portion of the work is its extensive coverage of languages and language families. From those as familiar as English, Japanese, and the Romance languages to Hittite, Yoruba, and Nahuatl, all corners of the world receive treatment. Languages that are the subject of independent entries are analyzed in terms of their phonology, grammatical features, syntax, and writing systems. Lists attached to each article on a language group or family enumerate all languages extinct or still spoken within that group and provide detailed information on the number of known speakers, geographical range, and degree of intelligibility with other languages in the group. In this way, virtually every known language receives coverage For ease of reference and to aid research the articles are alphabetically arranged each signed by the contributor supported by up to date bibliographies line drawings maps tables and diagrams and readily accessible via a system of cross references and a detailed index and synoptic outline Authoritative comprehensive and innovative the 2nd edition of the International Encyclopedia of Linguistics will be an indispensable addition to personal public academic and research libraries and will introduce a new generation of readers to the complexities and concerns of this field of study

Dictionary of Languages Andrew Dalby, 2015-10-28 Covering the political social and historical background of each language Dictionary of Languages offers a unique insight into human culture and communication Every language with official status is included as well as all those that have a written literature and 175 minor languages with special historical or anthropological interest We see how with the rapidly increasing uniformity of our culture as media's influence spreads more languages have become extinct or are under threat of extinction The text is highlighted by maps and charts of scripts while proverbs anecdotes and quotations reveal the features that make a language unique Ethnic Groups of Africa and the Middle East John A. Shoup, 2011-10-17 This encyclopedia is an essential guide to the different ethno linguistic groups in Africa and today's complicated Middle East region Ethnic Groups of Africa and the Middle East contains encyclopedic entries arranged alphabetically within ethno linguistic classifications Each entry has four main sections an introduction identifying the language group where they are found and their numbers a brief discussion of their origins and early history a section on cultural life that includes religion literature social organization and art and a final section on political organization and recent history The contents are appropriate for high school and undergraduate students as well as for experts who need a refresher on groups in Africa and the Middle East While certain ethnic groups have been combined into a single entry some such as the Tuareg who are a Berber people are described within their own entries because of their importance in history or cultural domination

World Directory of Minorities Bridget Anderson, James Chin, John Connell, Patrick Costello, Lindsey Crickmay, Chris Dammers, James Ferguson, David Hawk, David McDowall, Anna Matveeva, Julia Maxted, Neil Melvin, Peter O'Neill, Suzanne Pattle, Martyn Rady, Javaid Rehman, Alex Roslin, Nikhil Roy, David Sogge, Bogdan Szajkowski, Carl Wilson, Abebe Zegeye, 1997-01-01 This publication is the first version of the World Directory of Minorities and Indigenous Peoples published in 1997 The full Directory is now available and continually updated on our website The large majority of violent conflicts in the world today are conflicts within states with groups polarized across ethnic and religious divides and not across borders Ethnic religious and linguistic minorities are often among the poorest of the poor suffer discrimination and are frequently the victims of human rights abuses Time and time again in the past the United Nations system governments and even non governmental organizations NGOs working in the field of conflict prevention have failed to promote the human rights of minorities or to take early action to promote cooperation between communities Early action may have prevented the loss of millions of lives in many countries ranging from Rwanda to the former Yugoslavia and from Sri Lanka to Guatemala It is also significant that the Nobel Peace Prize was awarded to the Dalai Lama in 1989 and to Jose Ramos Horta and Bishop Carlos Belo in 1996 as a result of their peaceful campaigns to promote the rights of their people The situation of minorities is then a matter of major concern and it is essential that accurate objective and up to date information is made available This Directory contributes to that process It is difficult to assess accurately what proportion of the world's population identify themselves as belonging to minority communities Conservative estimates place this above 10 per cent and some suggest that more than 20 per cent of the world's population belongs to several thousand different minority groups and subgroups National statistics are often skewed for political reasons and there is no universally accepted definition of minorities The word has different interpretations in different societies throughout the world while the United Nations General Assembly has not sought to reach a definition beyond that implied in the title of the UN Declaration on the Rights of Persons belonging to National or Ethnic Religious and Linguistic Minorities adopted in December 1992 Minority Rights Group focuses its work on non dominant ethnic religious and linguistic communities whether or not they are numerical minorities The concept thus relates to any self identified community that is marginalized without power unable to take decisions over its destiny and often

experiencing high levels of illiteracy under education and overt or covert discrimination The basic rights of such communities need protection and promotion There is however a danger of generalizing about minorities and forgetting the complexity of their social composition including the rural poor urban migrants older people women and children These groups may be considered as doubly vulnerable What makes their situation particularly problematic is that there is often a deliberate political policy on the part of majorities and states not to give due regard to the legitimate interests of minorities while members of minorities see their identity as central to their social and economic situation They are often excluded from political power and decision making in the development process without equal opportunities to secure a better quality of life One further danger may lie in regarding ethnicities as fixed rather than as the potentially fluid phenomena that they often are Situational ethnicity does occur and individuals and groups do modify their self identifications depending on circumstances Please note that the terminology in the fields of minority rights and indigenous peoples rights has changed over time MRG strives to reflect these changes as well as respect the right to self identification on the part of minorities and indigenous peoples At the same time after over 50 years work we know that our archive is of considerable interest to activists and researchers Therefore we make available as much of our back catalogue as possible while being aware that the language used may not reflect current thinking on these issues Women's Voices from West Africa Aissata G. Sidikou, Thomas A.

Hale, 2012-02-23 Aissata G Sidikou and Thomas A Hale reveal the world of women's songs and singing in West Africa This anthology collected from 17 ethnic traditions across West Africa introduces the power and beauty of the intimate expressions of African women The songs many translated here for the first time reflect all stages of the life cycle and all walks of life They entertain give comfort and encouragement and empower other women to face the challenges imposed on them by their families men and society Women's Voices from West Africa opens a new window on women's changing roles in contemporary Africa Sahel: Art and Empires on the Shores of the Sahara Alisa LaGamma, Yaëlle Biro, Mamadou Cissé, David C.

Conrad, Souleymane Bachir Diagne, Roderick McIntosh, Paulo F. de Moraes Farias, Giulia Paoletti, Ibrahima Thiaw, 2020 This groundbreaking volume examines the extraordinary artistic and cultural traditions of the African region known as the western Sahel a vast area on the southern edge of the Sahara desert that includes present day Senegal Mauritania Mali and Niger This is the first book to present a comprehensive overview of the diverse cultural achievements and traditions of the region spanning more than 1 300 years from the pre Islamic period through the nineteenth century It features some of the earliest extant art from sub Saharan Africa as well as such iconic works as sculptures by the Dogon and Bamana peoples of Mali Essays by leading international scholars discuss the art architecture archaeology literature philosophy religion and history of the Sahel exploring the unique cultural landscape in which these ancient communities flourished Richly illustrated and brilliantly argued Sahel brings to life the enduring forms of expression created by the peoples who lived in this diverse crossroads of the world Africa Since 1935 Unesco. History of Africa,1999 The hardcover edition of volume 8 was published in 1994 This paperback edition is the eighth and final volume to be published in the UNESCO General History of Africa Volume 8 examines the period from 1935 to the present and details the role of African states in the Second World War and the rise of postwar Africa This is one of the most important books in the entire series and as such it is an unabridged paperback Encyclopedia of Linguistics Philipp

Strazny,2013-02-01 Utilizing a historical and international approach this valuable two volume resource makes even the more complex linguistic issues understandable for the non specialized reader Containing over 500 alphabetically arranged entries and an expansive glossary by a team of international scholars the Encyclopedia of Linguisticsexplores the varied perspectives figures and methodologies that make up the field A Thesaurus of African Languages Michael Mann,David

Dalby,2017-09-18 Originally published in 1987 this thesaurus is concerned with the spoken languages of Africa Languages are grouped into a relatively large number of sets and subsets within which the relationship of languages to one another is locally apparent and uncontroversial The volume presents the languages in classified order with notes on each language their variant names and immediate classification and reference to the sources consulted One section offers an exhaustive list of the languages spoken as home languages by local communities in each state together with details of languages widely used for inter group communication given official recognition or used in education or the media There are brief phonological analyses of a broad sample of some 20 African languages and a comprehensive bibliography and language index to the whole work African Ethnonyms Daniel P. Biebuyck,Susan Kelliher,Linda McRae,1996 A reference of some 2 500 names of specific African ethnic groups Emphasis is on the art of sub Saharan Africa with art broadly interpreted to include ornamental design architecture textiles and body adornment as well as the traditional arts of masks and sculpture Organized alphabetically entries list countries where groups are located and language name A secondary index lists groups by country and provides notes on historical colonial occupation languages and print resources For librarians museum scholars and researchers in art history anthropology linguistics and African studies Annotation copyright by Book News Inc Portland OR

Manuscript Cultures: Mapping the Field Jörg Quenzer,Dmitry Bondarev,Jan-Ulrich Sobisch,2014-12-12 Script and writing were among the most important inventions in human history and until the invention of printing the handwritten book was the primary medium of literary and cultural transmission Although the study of manuscripts is already quite advanced for many regions of the world no unified discipline of manuscript studies has yet evolved which is capable of treating handwritten books from East Asia India and the Islamic world equally alongside the European manuscript tradition This book which aims to begin the interdisciplinary dialogue needed to arrive at a truly systematic and comparative approach to manuscript cultures worldwide brings together papers by leading researchers concerned with material philological and cultural aspects of different manuscript traditions
