Lieberman, Manuela A. Diaz, Gloria Castro, Griselda Oliver Bucio, 2023-01-13 This state of the art clinician s guide describes Perinatal Child Parent Psychotherapy P CPP a treatment for pregnant women and their partners whose readiness to nurture a baby is compromised by traumatic stress and adverse life experiences P CPP an application to pregnancy of the widely disseminated evidence based Child Parent Psychotherapy spans the prenatal period through the first 6 months of life Extended cases illustrate ways to help mothers and fathers understand how trauma has affected them navigate the physical and emotional challenges of becoming parents build essential caregiving competencies and ensure the safety of their babies and themselves Cultural considerations in working with diverse families are addressed through specific intervention examples Becoming Parents and Overcoming Obstacles Emanuela Quagliata, 2018-05-01 There are many books that deal with pregnancy and maternity and a large number of magazines and articles on paediatric nursing that examine these subjects from different points of view This volume is not a manual and is not intended to explain to future parents what to do and what to avoid The objective is rather to look at the most significant and problematic aspects of this delicate phase of a woman s life and that of a couple It seeks to offer a key to understand the deep significance and complexity of the path to follow to become parents and to face fears linked to the difficulty of procreation using the tools of observation and psychoanalytic listening Reviewing several experiences of clinical work the authors offer reflections on the personal experiences of women and couples and the difficulties which can be met when the desire for a child is disappointed A maternity and parenting project can be frustrated by miscarriages and encounter the fear of infertility How are the problems of sterility or spontaneous abortion experienced From Pregnancy to Motherhood Gina Ferrara Mori, 2015-06-05 Explores the mental states associated with pregnancy birth and the early days of motherhood from a psychoanalytic perspective Drawing on clinical research findings and the infant observation method originally developed by Esther Bick the contributors examine a range of topics which include how women s view of motherhood is influenced by social cultural and biotechnological factors how women s sense of identity changes throughout pregnancy and motherhood how women s relationships with her family partner and future child are shaped and how mental health professionals can better understand ways to work with issues of maternal and infant mental health Publisher description Pregnancy, Assisted Reproduction and Psychoanalysis Renata Viola Vives, Ana Teresa Vale, 2024-09-24 Pregnancy Assisted Reproduction and

Psychoanalysis reflects on contemporary views on pregnancy while offering guidance on how to work with women and couples experiencing infertility as well as the unique issues raised by having a child through assisted reproduction technologies Comprised of chapters written by eminent analysts working with infertile couples and women and parents who have a child born from assisted reproduction this book offers insightful ways to better understand the challenges these patients undertake and the various issues this might bring into the analytic room The contributors examine the myriad psychic problems subjects are confronted with which could impact their ability to bond with children born through ART the mourning processes infertility entails the identification with the fertile parental couple the unconscious representation of origin the representation of the primal scene and the process of symbolic affiliation They consider the working through these processes necessitate in order to enable filiation and healthy parenting and give invaluable tools to the analyst to enable the promotion of psychological growth Throughout the chapters address the emotions that infertility summons in which both patient and analyst find a spectrum of unconscious phantasies and anxieties This book is an essential read for psychoanalysts and other professionals working in the field of ART as well as those interested in motherhood and its vicissitudes and intersection with psychoanalysis

Pregnancy Joan Raphael-Leff, 2018-05-08 Utilising her wealth of material and experience the author explores various aspects of the inside story of pregnancy She answers such questions as What meanings does childbearing have in the internal world How does a pregnant woman live with two people under her skin What is the expectant partner's experience Which dreams fears and fantasies proliferate around pregnancy and birth

Contradicting Maternity Carol Long, 2009-06-01 Drawing on rich and poignant interviews with mothers who have been diagnosed HIV positive Contradicting Maternity provides a rare perspective of motherhood from the mother's point of view Whereas motherhood is often assumed to be a secondary identity compared to the central figure of the child this book reverses the focus arguing that maternal experience is important in its own right The book explores the situation in which two very powerful identities those of motherhood and of being HIVpositive collide in the same moment This collision takes place at the interface of complex and often split social and personal meanings concerning the sanctity of motherhood and the anxieties of HIV The book offers an interpretation of how these personal and social meanings resonate with and also fail to encompass the experiences surrounding HIV positive mothers Photographs academic literature and the accounts of real women are read with both a psychodynamic and discursive eye highlighting the contradictions within maternal experience but also between maternal experience and the social imagination Contradicting Maternity will appeal to scholars students and practitioners in psychology the social sciences and the health professions The sensitive and readable analysis will also be of interest to mothers whether HIV positive or not

What Do Mothers Want? Sheila F. Brown, 2013-05-13 What do mothers want and need from their parenting partners their extended families their friends colleagues and communities And what can mental health professionals do to help them meet their daunting responsibilities in the contemporary world The talented contributors to What Do Mothers Want address these questions from perspectives that encompass differences in marital status parental status gender and sexual orientation Traversing the biological psychological cultural and economic dimensions of mothering they provide a compelling brief on the perplexing choices confronting mothers in the contemporary world Of course mothers most basically want their children to be safe and healthy But to this end they want and need many things caring partners intergenerational and community support a responsive workplace public services and opportunities to share their experiences with other mothers And they want their feelings and actions as mothers to be understood and accepted by those around them and by society at large The role of psychotherapy in reaching these latter goals is taken up by many of the contributors They reflect on the special psychological challenges of pregnancy birth and the arrival of a newborn into a couple s whether hetero or homosexual life and they address new venues of therapeutic assistance such as brief low cost therapy for at risk mothers and infants and group interventions to help couples grow into the new role of parental couples

The Psychological Processes of Childbearing Joan Raphael-Leff, 2018-05-03 Childbearing seems eternal primordial and universal Yet human reproduction in the 21st century is in a state of flux This accessible book highlights dramatic changes that have occurred over the last decades focusing on both individual and cross cultural diversity across the now elongated childbearing cycle and the uniqueness of desire and emotional experience It does so by locating the transition to parenthood in its psycho sexual and socio economic context emphasising interweaving internal external realities and our inherent interconnectedness with others Included are conscious and unconscious factors determining beliefs expectations and parenting practices and ways in which these are affected by rapid urbanisation shrinking families societal instability HIV governmental maternity and child care policies and attitudes of professionals Drawing widely on empirical and clinical research from disparate disciplines psychoanalytic neuro scientific neonatal sociological obstetric anthropological and midwifery this resource book synthesises these to illustrate a spectrum of processes affecting each person s mental health
