Aces High, Volume 1 Christopher Shores, Clive Williams, 2008-09-18 First in the Aces High series a military reference of the fighter pilots who had five or more confirmed victories while serving in the Royal Air Force Introduced by the French quite early in World War I the term ace was used to describe a pilot credited with five or more aerial victories But in the United Kingdom the term was never officially recognized Becoming an ace was partly luck especially considering the campaigns in which they flew and the areas of combat There are three distinct kinds of aces the defensive ace the offensive ace and the night fighter This book is a revised collection of the biographies of the highest scoring Allied fighter pilots of World War II including those with the confirmed claims of shooting down five aircraft and those pilots with lower scores but whose wartime careers prove them worthy of inclusion All details of their combat are arranged in tabular form Included are a selection of photographs from hitherto private collections There are some authors whose name alone is sufficient reason to buy a book and Christopher Shores is surely one of these By profession a chartered surveyor he served in the Royal Air Force in the 1950s so his writing bears the stamp of authenticity HistoryNet

Battle of Britain Airfields Under Attack Dilip Sarkar, 2024-11-30 In this unprecedented series exploring the big story of the Battle of Britain renowned historian Dilip Sarkar investigates the wider context and intimate details of the epic aerial conflict in the summer of 1940 from all sides In so doing he gives due acknowledgement to the roles of Bomber and Coastal Commands in addition to the fabled Few of Fighter Command This unique narrative draws upon a lifetime of research the author having enjoyed a long relationship with survivors and the relatives of casualties his innumerable interviews and first hand accounts collated in addition to privileged access to personal papers providing essential human interest to this inspirational story In this the fourth volume Battle of Britain Airfields Under Attack Dilip continues to examine the fighting on a day by day combat by combat basis from 19 August until 6 September 1940 It is a period in which we saw the Luftwaffe's bombing of the all important 11 Group airfields intensify culminating in The Hardest Day of 18 August 1940 which saw both sides lose more aircraft than any other day throughout the whole Battle of Britain The tensions and problems between Fighter Command's 11 and 12 Groups also intensified It was a situation that eventually led to Squadron Leader Douglas Bader criticising Fighter Command tactics proposing the use of Big Wings contrary to the System of Air defense and strategy involved gaining the support of his 12 Group commander Air Vice Marshal Leigh Mallory Given its later significance this is investigated in depth Through diligent research combined with crucial official primary sources and personal papers Dilip unravels many myths often challenging the accepted narrative This is not simply another dull record of combat losses and claims far from it Drawing upon unique first hand accounts from a wide range of combatants and eyewitnesses along with Daily Home Intelligence Reports and numerous other primary sources this book forms part of what is likely to be the first and last such comprehensively woven account of this epic air battle

Battle of Britain Daylight Defeat Dilip Sarkar, 2025-07-10 Sarkar's sixth volume examines the fourth phase of the Battle of Britain detailing Luftwaffe failures and Britain's resilience In this the sixth of Dilip Sarkar's unprecedented eight volume series the day by day events occurring in the fourth phase of the Battle of Britain are chronicled and set within a much wider context including the operations of Bomber and Coastal Commands and the Home Front Renowned for his evidence based approach the author has returned to primary sources the analysis arising often challenging our previous understanding and the popular narrative In Volume 5 Target London 7 September 1940 17 September 1940 the beginning of the Blitz was explored at length This illuminated the inescapable fact that Luftwaffe air intelligence completely failed to understand how Fighter Command was organised and controlled nor that it was replacement pilots not aircraft that was Air Chief Marshal Dowding's greatest concern. Indeed on 15 September 1940 Luftwaffe aircrews were briefed to expect but a token resistance over London from the last handful of RAF fighters; their morale shattered when their first attack was met by over 300, the second by nearly as many. This convinced Hitler that the Luftwaffe could not achieve the aerial superiority needed for the invasion of Britain to proceed. Two days later Operation Seelöwe was postponed indefinitely. Reichsmarschall Hermann Göring however still believed that the Luftwaffe could prevail and so continued attacking the UK, changing tack yet again. As London had proved it could take it, the Luftwaffe whilst continuing to bomb the capital by night now focussed its daylight attacks on the British aircraft industry. Naturally the Supermarine Spitfire factory at Southampton was a primary target; it was subsequently badly hit with great loss of life. Other factories in the West Country were also targeted and owing to a navigation error due to cloud cover the picturesque town of Sherborne was devastated on 30 September 1940. By that date however it was clear that Göring's He 111 force was unable to continue absorbing such losses and the type was exclusively switched to night bombing, thereby substantially reducing the German daylight bombing force. On 20 September 1940 Me 109 fighter bombers attacked London and going forward the next and final phase would see such attacks and high flying fighter sweeps dominate the daytime arena. Such raids though were never going to defeat Britain so it is fair to say that the period reviewed in this volume really did see the Daylight defeat of the Luftwaffe over England in 1940 and the events involved are interpreted and recounted in great detail.
