The Spoils of Famine Jason W. Clay, Sandra Steingraber, Peter Niggli, 1988      The Political Economy of African Famine R. E. Downs, Donna O. Kerner, Stephen P. Reyna, 2019-07-19 Originally published in 1991 This volume explores the combination of political and economic forces that influence different levels of food supply The book begins with a discussion of famine theories ranging from cultural ecology to neo Marxism Following this survey is a series of essays by anthropologists geographers economists and development practitioners that explores the role of Western institutions in African famine analyzes famine in particular countries and documents the relationship between famine and gender This book takes an unusually broad look at famine by including analyses of countries where hunger has rarely been studied and by examining African famine from both African and Western perspectives Its concluding proposals for eradicating famine make innovative and provocative contributions to current global debates on food and nutrition      Routledge Library Editions: Food Supply and Policy Various, 2021-08-29 Reissuing works originally published between 1952 and 1999 this set provides a wide spread of scholarship on issues surrounding food provision throughout the world The earlier books look at import and export changes during times when previous trade routes and options changed while later ones mostly consider food assistance policies poverty and famine and welfare These books cover third world studies economics anthropology politics environment agriculture and population studies as well as food and nutrition      Resettlement and Famine in Ethiopia Alula Pankhurst, 1992 This book is the inside story of the Ethiopian resettlement programme carried out in the mid 1980s by the Ethiopian government amid fierce international controversy It relies on the views of the settlers themselves and is based on an in depth study carried out by an anthropologist who lived in a resettlement village Alula Pankhurst dispels current myths about resettlement while showing the importance of famine and coercion he highlights social factors in the mosaic of settlers motivation He documents the attempt to institute a collectivist model of agriculture and analyses the reasons for its failure He also examines the effects of Ethiopia s recent economic liberalisation and the impact of aid agencies The book addresses an increasing Third World phenomenon state organised relocation It is a major contribution to the literature on mass migration and on refugees By focusing on the interaction between people and the state it also reassesses a fundamental development problem the gulf between local and national priorities Accessible and thought provoking Resettlement and famine in Ethiopia will be of interest to anthropologists students of development studies and practitioners and all those concerned by famine forced migration and socialist attempts to transform societies      Evil Days Alex De Waal, 1991 For the past thirty years under both Emperor Haile Selassie and President Mengistu Haile Mariam Ethiopia suffered continuous war and intermittent famine until every single province has been affected by war to some degree Evil Days documents the wide range of violations of basic human rights committed by all sides in the conflict especially the Mengistu government s direct responsibility for the deaths of at least half a million Ethiopian civilians      The Oxford Handbook of Genocide Studies

Donald Bloxham, A. Dirk Moses, 2010-04-15 This book subjects both genocide and genocide studies to systematic in depth analysis 34 renowned experts study genocide world wide through the ages by taking regional thematic and interdisciplinary approaches

Environmental Health in Emergencies and Disasters Ben Wisner, John Adams, 2002 Aimed at practitioners policymakers and researchers this volume distills knowledge of environmental health during an emergency or disaster It draws on results from the International Decade for Natural Disaster Reduction and experience with sustainable development between the two Earth Summits

Enough with Famines in Ethiopia Fasil G. Kiros, 2005 When in 2002 03 Ethiopia was ushered into the twenty first century by the threat of famine of unprecedented proportion it stirred a deeply felt reaction to call on policy makers and ordinary citizens to raise arms against a scourge which has afflicted their country throughout its long history The announcement of the threat of famine amounted to a virtual acknowledgement that the country's past national development goal has been little more than a pipe dream For no claim of development can be made in the face of the prospect of mass starvation It is proposed that a new start is needed in Ethiopia in the pursuit of the goal of lasting food security and the prevention of recurrent famine one which can at times put to question the conventional development wisdom and calls for a commitment to certain key principles which can help prevent the repetition of past failures while at the same time providing the foundation for future progress It is argued that lasting food security can only be achieved by means of an interactive development process involving the sustainable development of agriculture and an increasingly diversified national economy In concluding the main questions which may likely concern many people are addressed directly Wherefrom are the investment resources to be obtained and where the capacities are to be summoned to promote the scale and tempo of the development envisaged Examples are offered of the types of measures which could be considered in response to the future development challenges Ultimately both the ends of development and the means by which they might be attained must derive impetus from the cravings and drive for accomplishment of ordinary people acting individually or collectively in the pursuit of their common interests The primary instrument for unleashing this potential belongs to the political realm

International Migration and Global Justice Satvinder Juss, 2016-04-22 How should international law approach the critical issue of movement of peoples in the 21st century This book presents a radical reappraisal of this controversial problem Challenging present day ideas of restrictions on freedom of movement and the international structure that controls entry to states it argues for a new blueprint for international migration policy that eliminates waste aids both developing and developed societies and brings attendant benefits to voluntary migrants and involuntary refugees alike In a world of increasing disorder it is suggested that current policy only adds to international instability and threatens the interests of a functional global community

Coming Home? Lynell D. Long, Ellen Oxfeld, 2017-06-16 Few things weigh on the human spirit more heavily than a sense of place the lands we live in and return to have a profound ability to shape our notions of home and homeland not to mention our own identities The pull of the familiar and the desire to begin anew are conflicting impulses for the nearly 180 million people who live outside their countries of origin often with the expectation of returning home Of 30 million people who immigrated to the United States alone between 1900 and 1980 10 million are believed to have returned to their homelands While migration flows occur in both directions surprisingly few studies of transnationalism global migration or diaspora address return experiences Undertaking a comparative analysis of how coming home affects individuals and their communities in a myriad cultural and geographic settings the contributors to this volume seek to understand the unique return migration experiences of refugees migrants and various others as they confront the social pressures and a sense of displacement that accompany their journeys The returns depicted in Coming Home range from temporary visits to permanent repatriation from voluntary to coerced movements and from those occurring after a few years of exile to those after several decades away The geographic sites include the Balkans Barbados China Eritrea Ethiopia Germany Nicaragua the Philippines Rwanda and Vietnam Several studies portray the experiences of returning refugees who earlier fled war and violence while others focus on economic or labor migrants As the essays show connections between permanent returnees and home communities are contentious and complex On the one hand issues of land title property rights political orientation and religious and cultural beliefs and practices create grounds for clashes between returnees and their home communities but on the other returnees bring with them a unique ability to transform local practices and provide new resources

Understanding Impoverishment Chris McDowell,1996 Infrastructure development projects are set to continue into the next century as developing country governments seek to manage population growth urbanization and industrialization The contributions in this volume raise many questions about development and progress in the late twentieth century What is revealed are the enormous problems and disastrous affects which continue to accompany displacement operations in many countries which raise the ever more urgent question of whether the benefits of infrastructure development justify or outweigh the pain of the radical disruption of peoples lives exacerbated by the fact that with some notable exceptions there has been a lack of official recognition on the part of governments and international agencies that development induced displacement is a problem at all This important volume addresses the issues and shows just how serious the situation is
