Style Politics And The Future Of Philosophy:

Style, Politics and the Future of Philosophy A. Janik, 2012-12-06 Why did the two most influential philosophers in the twentieth century Ludwig Wittgenstein and Martin Heidegger write in such a curious fashion that they confused a whole generation of disciples and created a cottage industry for a second generation in the interpretation of their works Do those curious writing strategies have a philosophical significance How does philosophical style reflect attitudes to society and politics or bear significance for the social sciences Is politics one type of human activity among many other independent ones as the classical modern political theorists from Hobbes and Machiavelli onwards have thought or is it part and parcel of all of the activities into which an animal that speaks enters How could the latter be elucidated If politics arises from legitimate disputes about meanings what does this imply for current cultural debates for the so called social sciences above all for that cultural conversation which some consider to be the destiny of philosophy in the wake of the demise of foundationalism These are a few of the most important questions which led me to the critical confrontation and reflections in the essays collected below

Style, politics and the future of philosophy Allan Janik, 1986 Wittgenstein and the Study of Politics Michael Temelini, 2015-01-01 In Wittgenstein and the Study of Politics Michael Temelini outlines an innovative new approach to understanding the political implications of Wittgenstein's philosophy Most political philosophers who have approached Wittgenstein have done so through the idea of therapeutic skepticism implying politics that privilege conservatism or non interference Temelini interprets Wittgenstein differently emphasizing his view that we come to understand the meanings of words and actions through a dialogue of comparison with other cases Examining the work of Charles Taylor Quentin Skinner and James Tully Temelini highlights the ways in which all three despite their differences share a common debt to that dialogical approach A cogent explanation of how Wittgenstein's epistemology and ontology can shed light on political issues and offer a solution to political challenges Wittgenstein and the Study of Politics highlights the importance of Wittgensteinian thinking in contemporary political science political theory and political philosophy

Correspondence, Invariance and Heuristics S. French, H. Kammenga, 2013-03-09 This volume is presented in honour of Heinz Post who founded a distinctive and distinguished school of philosophy of science at Chelsea College University of London The Chelsea tradition in philosophy of science takes the content of science seriously as exemplified by the papers presented here The unifying theme of this work is that of Correspondence Invariance and Heuristics after the title of a classic and seminal paper by Heinz Post published in 1971 which is reproduced in this volume with the kind permission of the editors and publishers of Studies in History and Philosophy of Science Described by Paul Feyerabend in Against Method as brilliant and a partial antidote against the view which I try to defend 1975 p 61 fn 17 this paper peppered with illustrative examples from the history of science brings to the fore some of Heinz Post's central concerns the heuristic criteria used by scientists in constructing their theories the intertheoretic relationships which these criteria reflect and in particular the nature of the correspondence that holds between a theory and its predecessors and its successors The appearance of this volume more than twenty years later is an indication of the fruitfulness of Post's contribution philosophers of science continue to explore the issues raised in his 1971 paper

Science and the Pacific War Roy M. MacLeod, 1999-12-31 In 1995 the fiftieth anniversary of the end of the Second World War occasioned many reflections on the place of science and technology in the conflict That the war ended with Allied victory in the Pacific theatre inevitably focussed attention upon the Pacific region and particularly upon the Manhattan project and its outcome It was in the Pacific that Western physics and engineering gave birth to the Atomic Age However the Pacific war had also proved a testing time and a testing space for other disciplines and institutions Extreme environments and operational distances and the fundamental demands of logistics required the Allies and the Japanese to innovate many scientific and technological practices Just as medicine and botany were called upon to fight tropical diseases and insect pests so engineers anthropologists and geographers were called upon to understand local conditions and climates and to work with local peoples whose traditional lives were changed forever by the experience At the same time the war played midwife to a host of new developments not least in scientific intelligence and in chemical and biological weapons which were to acquire far greater importance after 1945

The Founders of Evolutionary Genetics S. Sarkar, 2012-12-06 genetics It is simply the appropriation of that term very likely with insufficient knowledge and respect for its past usage For that the Editor alone is responsible and requests tolerance He has as far as he can tell no intention or desire to use it for any historiographical purposes other than that just mentioned Even more important the decision to consider Muller together with Fisher Haldane and Wright is also not original Crow 1984 has already done so arguing persuasively that Muller was keenly interested in evolution and made substantial contributions to the development of the neo Darwinian view Crow's reasons for considering these four figures together and the reasons discussed above are complementary This book continues a historiographical choice he initiated others will have to judge whether it is appropriate The foregoing considerations were intended to show why Fisher Haldane Muller and Wright should be considered together in the history of theoretical evolutionary genetics I By a welcome stroke of luck from the point of view of the Editor all four of these figures were born almost together between 1889 and 1892 and almost exactly a century ago It therefore seemed appropriate to use their birth centenaries to consider their work together A conference was held at Boston University on March 6 1990 under the auspices of the Boston Center for the Philosophy and History of Science to discuss their work This book has emerged mainly from that conference

Fact, Faith and Fiction in the Development of Science R. Hooykaas, 2013-06-29 In this posthumous book the late Professor R Hooykaas 1906 1994 conveys a lifetime of historical thought about modes of scientific advance over the centuries In what variety of ways has the human mind with all its subjectivity and its capacity for self deception but also its piercing gifts of discovery managed to come to terms with the whimsical tricks of nature Central to this erudite penetrating and widely ranging study is Hooykaas's distinction between facts given by nature yet entirely subject to our mode of interpreting them faith broad conceptions like the idea of order of simplicity or of harmony and fictions in the sense of those daring intellectual tools such as theories and hypotheses and models which reflect the scientist's creative imagination Case studies drawn from the history of all branches of science including chemistry and the earth sciences and from Antiquity to the present day serve to widen and to deepen the understanding of every reader whether a historian of science or not with a desire to learn more about the realities of the scientific pursuit

The Context of Explanation M. Bunzl, 2012-12-06 In this book Martin Bunzl considers the prospects for a general and comprehensive account of explanation given the variety of interests that prompt explanations in science Bunzl argues that any successful account of explanation must deal with two very different contexts one static and one dynamic Traditionally theories of explanation have been built for the former of these two contexts That is to say they are designed to show how it is that a finished body of scientific knowledge can be put to explanatory use But finished sciences are few and far between Real explanation also occurs in a dynamical context in which questions are asked and answers are given as theories are in the process of being constructed Here Bunzl argues that attending to explanation produced under these dynamic circumstances undermines prominent features of the theory of explanation produced in the traditional static context

Observation and Experiment in the Natural and Social Sciences Maria Carla Galavotti, 2006-04-18 According to a long tradition in philosophy of science a clear cut distinction can be traced between a context of discovery and a context of justification This tradition dates back to the birth of the discipline in connection with the Circles of Vienna and Berlin in the twenties and thirties of last century Convinced that only the context of justification is pertinent to philosophy of science logical empiricists identified its goal with the rational reconstruction of scientific knowledge taken as the clarification of the logical structure of science through an analysis of its language and methods Stressing justification as the proper field of application of philosophy of science logical empiricists intended to leave discovery out of its remit The context of discovery was then discarded from philosophy of science and left to sociology psychology and history The distinction between context of discovery and context of justification goes hand in hand with the tenet that the theoretical side of science can and should be kept separate from its observational and experimental components Further the final abstract formulation of theories should be analysed apart from the process behind it resulting from a tangle of context dependent factors This conviction is reflected by the distinction between theoretical and observational sentences underpinning the Hempelian view of theories as nets whose knots represent theoretical terms floating on the plane of observation to which it is anchored by rules of interpretation
