Citizen Refugee Udit Sen, 2018-08-30 This innovative study explores the interface between nation building and refugee rehabilitation in post partition India Relying on archival records and oral histories Udit Sen analyses official policy towards Hindu refugees from eastern Pakistan to reveal a pan Indian governmentality of rehabilitation This governmentality emerged in the Andaman Islands where Bengali refugees were recast as pioneering settlers Not all refugees however were willing or able to live up to this top down vision of productive citizenship Their reminiscences reveal divergent negotiations of rehabilitation from below Educated refugees from dominant castes mobilised their social and cultural capital to build urban squatters colonies while poor Dalit refugees had to perform the role of agricultural pioneers to access aid Policies of rehabilitation marginalised single and widowed women by treating them as permanent liabilities These rich case studies dramatically expand our understanding of popular politics and everyday citizenship in post partition India

Refugeehood and the Postconflict Subject Olga Maya Demetriou, 2018-08-27 Being a refugee is not simply a matter of law determination procedures or the act of flight It is an ontological condition structured by the politics of law affect and territory Refugeehood and the Postconflict Subject explores the variable facets of refugeehood their interconnections and their intended and unintended consequences Grounded on more than a decade of research on the island of Cyprus Olga Maya Demetriou considers how different groups of refugees coexist and how this coexistence invites reinterpretations of the law and its politics The long standing political conflict in Cyprus produced not only the paradigmatic formally recognized refugee but also other groups of displaced persons not so categorized By examining the people and circumstances Demetriou reveals the tensions and contestations within the international refugee regimes and argues that any reinterpretation that accounts for these tensions also needs to recognize that these minor losses are not incidental to refugeehood but an intrinsic part of the wider issues

Making Refugees' Political Agency Visible Amelie Harbisch, 2025-01-21 This book centres refugees and asylum seekers as agents of global politics broadening our thinking about political agency beyond statism citizenship and organized political protest Arguing that to understand forced migration we must understand the construction of refugees as individual human subjects and how subconscious ideas about refugees influence daily practices and policies the author studies how refugees make meaning about themselves Forced migration is a key formative phenomenon of international politics but debates habitually discuss displacement only as an abstract number economic challenge or security issue This volume shifts attention to the individual human subjects as overlooked agents of international relations To this end the book rethinks individual subjects altogether and develops a comprehensive practice theoretical framework of subject construction Through extensive ethnographic data generated with refugees in Germany and Austria the author reveals how refugees are depoliticized and how they combat this using creativity humour and intercultural resources This volume highlights people's agency despite being subjected to powerful ideas and mechanisms It will appeal to scholars and students of International Relations Sociology Political Science and Migration Studies

Globalizing

Citizenship Kim Rygiel, 2011-01-01 The events of 9 11 exposed and enhanced tensions between global capitalism and the nation state Governments struggle more than ever to govern populations and manage cross border traffic without building new barriers to trade and commerce What does citizenship mean in this context Is it in crisis Kim Rygiel explores these questions by examining border and detention policies in the United States the United Kingdom Canada and Australia as part of a larger politics of citizenship that preceded 9 11 Building on Foucault s concept of biopolitics she argues that citizenship is becoming a globalizing regime to govern mobility as nations harmonize border and detention policies outsource state functions to international organizations and private companies and rely on technologies of governing to discipline the body The new mobility regime is not only deepening boundaries based on race class and gender it is causing Western nations to embrace a more technocratic depoliticized understanding of citizenship

States and Strangers Nevzat Soguk, 1999 Looks at the role of refugees in international relations Refugees may flee their country but can they escape the confining defining logic of all the voices that speak for them As refugees multiply in our troubled world more and more scholars studies and pundits focus on their plight Most of these analyses says Nevzat Soguk start from a model that shares the assumptions manifested in traditional definitions of citizen nation and state Within this hierarchy he argues a refugee has no place to go States and Strangers questions this paradigm particularly its vision of the territoriality of life A radical retheorization of the refugee from a Foucauldian perspective the book views the international refugee regime not as a simple tertiary response arising from the practice of states regarding refugee problems but as itself an aspect of the regimentation of statecraft The attendant discourse negates the multiplicity of refugee events and experience by assigning the refugee an identity someone without the citizen s grounding within a territorial space the state renders him voiceless and deprives him of representation and protection States and Strangers asks how this happens and how it can be avoided Using historical archival research and interpretive strategies drawn from a genealogical approach Soguk considers the role of the refugee in the emergence and maintenance of the sovereign territorial state from the late seventeenth century to contemporary times ISBN 0 8166 3166 2 Cloth jacket 00 00 62 95x 340 Pages 5 7 8 x 9 March Borderlines Series volume 11 Translation inquiries University of Minnesota Press
