Queering the Subversive Stitch Joseph McBrinn, 2021-04-08 The history of men's needlework has long been considered a taboo subject This is the first book ever published to document and critically interrogate a range of needlework made by men It reveals that since medieval times men have threaded their own needles stitched and knitted woven lace handmade clothes as well as other kinds of textiles and generally delighted in the pleasures and possibilities offered by all sorts of needlework Only since the dawn of the modern age in the eighteenth and the nineteenth centuries did needlework become closely aligned with new ideologies of the feminine Since then men's needlework has been read not just as feminising but as queer In this groundbreaking study Joseph McBrinn argues that needlework by male artists as well as anonymous tailors sailors soldiers convalescents paupers prisoners hobbyists and a multitude of other men and boys deserves to be looked at again Drawing on a wealth of examples of men's needlework as well as visual representations of the male needleworker in museum collections from artist's papers and archives in forgotten magazines and specialist publications popular novels and children's literature and even in the history of photography film and television he surveys and analyses many of the instances in which needlemen have contested resisted and subverted the constrictive ideals of modern masculinity This audacious original carefully researched and often amusing study demonstrates the significance of needlework by men in understanding their feelings agency identity and history

New Feminist Art Criticism Katy Deepwell, 1995 This text reviews feminist art strategies as they emerged in the late 1980s and early 1990s in America and the UK It draws together the views of prominent practitioners critics academics and curators on a broad range of controversial issues The central focus of the book is feminism's engagement with psychoanalysis and post modernism and its aim of deconstructing the borders between art and craft and theory and practice Feminist politics in the art world are also investigated through discussion of the negotiations of feminist curators responses to feminist exhibitions issues surrounding pornography and the censorship of women's work and the role of feminist teaching on fine art and design degree courses The book covers a variety of art work including installation work painting textiles and photography

The New Politics of the Handmade Anthea Black, Nicole Burisch, 2020-12-10 Contemporary craft art and design are inseparable from the flows of production and consumption under global capitalism The New Politics of the Handmade features twenty three voices who critically rethink the handmade in this dramatically shifting economy The authors examine craft within the conditions of extreme material and economic disparity a renewed focus on labour and materiality in contemporary art and museums the political dimensions of craftivism neoliberalism and state power efforts toward urban renewal and sustainability the use of digital technologies and craft's connections to race cultural identity and sovereignty in texts that criss cross five continents They claim contemporary craft as a dynamic critical position for understanding the most immediate political and aesthetic
