Success And Failure In Housing Provision European Systems Compared Policy Planning And Critical Theory:

Success and Failure in Housing Provision James Barlow, Simon Duncan, 1994 Previous research into comparative housing has concentrated on juxtaposing empirical differences without explaining why differences arise Often this is done within ideal theoretical models that rely on simple state market dualisms The aim of this book is to assess the successes and failures of existing alternative systems and to account for their outcome while asking what sort of state market mix produces what sort of behaviour Starting with a critique of the theory of free markets the book proceeds by categorizing alternative housing systems in Europe followed by a comparative analysis of production allocation and dynamic efficiency in three representative centres Britain France and Sweden Differences are explained by focusing on alternative housing strategies and land supply systems A comparative summary completes this important volume Housing Governance in a Time of Financialization Roman Zwicky, 2020-12-31 In recent years the financialization of housing has become a major challenge to many cities across the globe not the least because it tends to favor the interests of global finance over the needs of residents Based on three case studies in the city regions of Zurich Birmingham and Lyon the present investigation analyzes the interplay of housing governance and policies over the past 20 years against the backdrop of the financialization of housing
