Sudden Infant Death Enduring The Loss:

Sudden Infant Death Syndrome Dawne J. Gurbutt, 2007 This insightful guide is based on real life accounts from mothers who have experienced Sudden Infant Death Syndrome Focusing on grief motherhood and maternal identity the book is an intriguing read often upsetting yet desperately compelling Sudden Infant Death Syndrome, 1994 When a Baby Dies of SIDS Karen Martin, 2017-07-12 The cause of the number one killer of apparently healthy infants between the ages of one week and one year Sudden Infant Death Syndrome SIDS continues to defy science This cruel mystery intensifies an already painful experience for bereaved parents who frequently blame themselves for their baby's death This book explores how parents grieve the meanings and casual explanations they attribute to a SIDS death the effects of their grief on family relationships and the strategies they use to cope and carry on Karen Martin's grounded theory study describes in detail the experiences of mothers and fathers whose babies died of SIDS ranging from less than one to over twenty five years after the baby's death Her work makes an important contribution to health fields and to the social science of medicine and is a critical resource for family doctors public health nurses counsellors ministers and all those working with grieving parents

Mothers Bereaved by Stillbirth, Neonatal Death or Sudden Infant Death Syndrome Frances M. Boyle, 2018-10-26 First published in 1997 this volume studied families bereaved by perinatal or infant death including factors both preceding and following the experience and its effect on areas such as marriage mental health and future conception based on interviews with 194 women living in south eastern Queensland Australia Tracing the natural history of the first thirty months of their loss all mothers completed semi structured interviews and standardized questionnaires at two eight fifteen and thirty months following the baby's death The study aims to explain and explore these effects and to suggest some potential recommendations for the care and support of women who experience stillbirth neonatal death or SIDS Coping with the Death of a Child Darin D. Schiffman, 2019-06-19 Coping with the Death of a Child shows clinicians how to integrate various therapeutic modalities and clinical approaches to grief therapy into one comprehensive model linked to positive change This integrated model shows mental health professionals how to offer practical and emotional support to the bereaved using descriptions of treatments care protocols and guidelines Through this approach practitioners can foster interpersonal support and growth among families even when grieving styles and timing differ between individuals Clinicians and the families they treat will come away from the book with tools for recognizing distorted and pathogenic exchanges between family members for valuing the emotional elements of their individual experiences and for shifting toward solution focused activities Palliative Care for Infants, Children, and Adolescents Brian S. Carter, Marcia Levetown, Sarah E. Friebert, 2011-10-15 There are few things requiring more expertise delicacy and compassion than caring for an infant child or young adult with a life limiting condition This guide provides professionals involved in pediatric palliative and end of life care with comprehensive information Children Mourning, Mourning Children Kenneth J. Doka, 2014-01-21 Based on the Hospice Foundation of America's second annual teleconference this book explores three basic themes in children's grief. Firstly it maintains that children are always developing therefore their understanding of death and their reactions to illness and loss are also multifaceted and constantly undergoing change. Secondly children grieve in ways that are both different from and similar to adults. While they may need different therapeutic approaches from their elders each loss is different and the grief experience will be affected by many of the same factors that affect adults. Thirdly it holds that they need significant support as they grieve. Talking to children about loss and illness is too important to wait until a crisis rather it is essential to provide opportunities to discuss loss in times that are not so emotionally laden. This book aims to demonstrate that open communication between parents and children will lead to skills and understanding that are essential to the child for coping with loss and reaffirming that death is part of the process of living.

Female Experience Joan Raphael-Leff, Rosine Jozef Perelberg, 1997. Female Experience brings together contributions from three generations of female psychoanalysts writing about their own experiences of working with female patients and questioning the specific determinants of female sexuality and gender identity which have become central in psychoanalytic debate. The authors represent a cross section of different theoretical orientations: Kleinian, Freudian and Independent and also draw on varied professional backgrounds. Beginning with Freud, psychoanalysts have questioned the constraints of gender as manifested with transference and countertransference within the therapeutic process. However, explorations have focused on cross gender alliances. The contributors to this book present detailed material pertaining exclusively to the analytic relation between women. The insight this book gives into female analysts' special way of listening to and understanding women's preoccupations serves to illustrate why British analysts have made such a huge contribution to the psychoanalytic gender debate in recent years. The editors are both full members of the British Psychoanalytical Society and the International Psychoanalytical Association.
