The Last Best West Women On The Alberta Frontier 1880-1930:

The Last Best West Eliane Leslau Silverman, 1984 This collection of unusually powerful stories opens up a refreshing new chapter in Canadian history. Since there are so few written records of the lives of frontier women, Dr. Silverman collected memories; the result has the hypnotic appeal of all genuine storytelling. It extends our understanding of Canadian heritage by weaving a collective autobiography of the women who were the earliest settlers in Alberta, the site of the final North American land rush. The true story of how these women created a society from a harsh frontier is heartwarming and inspiring. Publisher
