From Blood Diamonds to the Kimberley Process Franziska Bieri, 2016-04-15 In the late 1990s several non-governmental organizations NGOs focused world attention on the issue of conflict diamonds which funded wars massive death and refugee crises across Central and West Africa Several governments NGOs and key industry players engaged in negotiations under the so-called Kimberley Process KP A voluntary global agreement came into effect leading to a substantial decline in illicit diamond trade Despite its importance in international affairs the KP remains understudied in academia Franziska Bieri's book provides the first comprehensive account of the KP and is the first to reveal how NGOs have become critical actors in their own right possessing the ability to directly influence policies and to participate in the decision making and the implementation of global agreements In developing this argument Bieri explains why the NGO campaign to raise awareness was successful why a rapid and comprehensive resolution on such a complex global problem was possible how the tripartite negotiations between states NGOs and industry developed during the implementation of the agreement which is an on-going process Based on extensive personal interviews with prominent campaigners leading bureaucrats and industry officials hundreds of KP publications official UN documents industry news and NGO reports this timely book allows for a much-needed engagement in contemporary debates about the campaign against conflict diamonds the Kimberley Process and the themes defining today's global governance arena

Transactions of the Geological Society of South Africa Geological Society of South Africa, 1905 Bronnenboek volkenrecht, 2010 Natural Resource Conflicts M. Troy Burnett, 2016-09-19 Natural resource and environmental conflicts have long been issues confronting human societies This case-based examination of a wide range of natural resource disputes exposes readers to many contemporary examples that offer reasons for both hope and concern The Rwandan genocide the Sudanese civil war and perpetual instability in the Middle East and Africa each of these crises have arguably been instigated and maintained by natural resource disputes China has undertaken a Herculean task to plant hundreds of millions of trees along its margins in an effort to save Beijing from crippling dust storms and halt the expansion of the Gobi desert Will it work and is it worth it These and many other cases of conflict stemming from natural resource or environmental concerns are explained and debated in this up to date examination of contemporary and ongoing topics The book examines conflicts over precious resources and minerals such as diamonds oil water and fisheries as well as the pursuit of lesser known minerals like Coltan and other rare earth elements important resources in our technological age in remote locations such as Greenland and the Congo Each topic contains an overview and two position essays from different authors thereby providing the reader with highly informative and balanced perspectives Reference entries accompany each topic as well helping students to better understand each issue As the world hurtles into the 21st century these natural resource issues are becoming increasingly important with all global citizens having a significant stake in how these conflicts arise and play out health But they also raise new questions about the effectiveness and legitimacy of transnational governance An expanding body of scholarship has sought to identify and assess these new forms of governance but this young body of work has lacked a sense of the larger picture This volume seeks to fill that need by presenting a comprehensive overview of new forms of transnational governance This resource is essential for those who want to explain why transborder governance has changed and to understand what implications these changes have for global politics
