Women in Neoliberal Postfeminist Television Drama Cat Mahoney, 2019-11-07 In this insightful book Cat Mahoney offers a fascinating analysis of contemporary TV dramas such as Home Fires Land Girls and The Bletchley Circle Developing the idea that history is told through the preoccupations of the present she argues compellingly that these are postfeminist dramas which work through troubling ideas about heteronormative romance domesticity beauty and whiteness while reinforcing the idea that feminism as a political movement is not necessary A bold and original contribution to television studies gender studies and popular history Rosalind Gill City University of London UK By examining contemporary television drama set during and immediately after the Second World

War this book illustrates the ways in which postfeminism has shaped representations of women in contemporary culture Mahoney offers a new perspective to debates that have previously been concerned with questions of historical accuracy She argues that depictions of women from the past in modern television drama spawn from the neoliberal postfeminist media climate which originated in the 1990s These depictions respond to a cultural need to naturalise and de historicise a version of neoliberal postfeminist femininity that is compatible with the current media climate and far more reflective of the concerns of the present than any real or lived experience of women in the past The result of this process of naturalisation is the assertion that postfeminist values are natural and eternal rather than a product of the 1980s economic turn and the present political moment By identifying and interrogating postfeminist norms within four television drama series produced since the 2008 financial crash this book argues that postfeminism is a dominant structuring force in their depiction of female characters and of the past Land Girls: The Promise Roland Moore,2018-10-04 A brand new saga from the writer of the popular BBC series Land Girls featuring your favourite characters from the show In times of war are promises made to be broken

Women at Work in World Wars I and II Paul Chrystal,2024-04-04 This book is about women in World Wars I II women working in factories and on farms or toiling perilously in field stations just behind the front lines in inhospitable hospitals and convalescent homes It is therefore about the prodigious contribution women made to the war efforts from 1914 1918 and 1939 1945 standing in for the men who had left their places of work for the various theatres of war from Greece and Italy to Belgium from Mesopotamia to France Their tasks were many and various keeping the troops supplied with shells bullets and explosives keeping the nation from starving to death keeping hundreds of thousands of wounded troops alive so that they might fight another day The book is in short the uplifting but sometimes tragic story of the many women who stepped up to work in the factories hospitals field stations in transport and in civil defense on the farms and shipyards or signed up to the various military and civil services during the two world wars of the 20th century wars to end all wars The book is different because it deals with women s labour in both world wars and in all occupations it covers the discrimination and prejudice they faced from men at every level military and civilian even when they had demonstrated beyond doubt that they were quick learners industrious and proficient and usually as good as any man The book raises the embarrassing question why it has it taken so long for the prodigious contribution women made in both wars to be recognized and why some women workers still remain air brushed from our military history after more than a century As it turned out little was beyond their capabilities and it is reasonable to suppose that without their huge efforts and accomplishments both wars might have turned out very differently for us Parliamentary Debates New Zealand. Parliament,1888 Youth Movements, Citizenship and the English Countryside Sian Edwards,2017-11-28 This book explores the significance and meaning of the countryside within mid twentieth century youth movements It examines the ways in which the Boy Scouts Girl Guides Woodcraft Folk and Young Farmers Club organisations employed the countryside as a space within which good citizenship in leisure work the home and the community could be developed Mid century youth movements identified the problem of modern youth as a predominantly urban and working class issue They held that the countryside offered an effective antidote to these problems being a good citizen within this context necessitated a respectful and mutually beneficial relationship with the rural sphere Avenues to good citizenship could be found through an enthusiasm for outdoor recreation the stewardship of the countryside and work on the land However models of good citizenship were intrinsically gendered

Television for Women Rachel Moseley, Helen Wheatley, Helen Wood, 2016-11-10 Television for Women brings together emerging and established scholars to reconsider the question of television for women In the context of the 2000s when the potential meanings of both terms have expanded and changed so significantly in what ways might the concept of programming addressed explicitly to a group identified by gender still matter The essays in this collection take the existing scholarship in this field in significant new directions They expand its reach in terms of territory looking beyond for example the paradigmatic Anglo American axis and also historical span Additionally whilst the influential methodological formation of production text and audience is still visible here the new research in Television for Women frequently reconfigures that relationship The topics included here are far reaching from television as material culture at the British exhibition in the first half of the twentieth century women s roles in television production past and present to popular 1960s television such as The Liver Birds and in the twenty first century highly successful programmes including Orange is the New Black Call the Midwife One Born Every Minute and Wanted Down Under This book presents ground breaking research on historical and contemporary relationships between women and television around the world and is an ideal resource for students of television media and gender studies

Men at Work Linsey Robb, 2015-09-01 Men at Work explores the cultural portrayal of four essential wartime occupations agriculture industry firefighting and the mercantile marine In analysing a broad spectrum of wartime media most notably film radio and visual culture it establishes a clear hierarchy of masculine roles in British culture during the Second World War

Men, Masculinities and Male Culture in the Second World War Linsey Robb, Juliette Pattinson, 2017-11-04 This edited collection brings together cutting edge research on British masculinities and male culture considering the myriad ways British men experienced understood and remembered their exploits during the Second World War as active combatants prisoners and as civilian workers It examines male identities roles and representations in the armed forces with particular focus on the RAF army volunteers for dangerous duties and prisoners of war and on the home front with case studies of reserved occupations and Bletchley Park and examines the ways such roles have been remembered in post war years in memoirs film and memorials As such this analysis of previously underexplored male experiences makes a major contribution to the historiography of Britain in the Second World War as well as to socio cultural history cultural studies and gender studies
