The Tragedy of Romeo and Juliet ,1997 The Death and Resurrection of a Coherent Literature Curriculum Sandra Stotsky,2012-06-16 This book is addressed to teachers who know that the secondary literature curriculum in our public schools is in shambles Unless experienced and well read English teachers can develop coherent and increasingly demanding literature curricula in their schools average high school students will remain at about the fifth or sixth grade reading level where they now are to judge from several independent sources This book seeks to challenge education policy makers test developers and educators who discourage the assignment of appropriately difficult works to high school students and make construction of a coherent literature curriculum impossible It first traces the history of the literature curriculum in our middle schools and high schools and shows how it has been diminished and distorted in the past half century It then offers examples of coherent literature curricula and spells out the cognitive principles upon which coherence is based Finally it suggests what English teachers in our public schools could do to develop a literature curriculum that gives all their students an adequate basis for participation in an English speaking civic culture Suggested Books for Indian Schools United States. Bureau of Indian Affairs,1959 Reading Practices, Postcolonial Literature, and Cultural Mediation in the Classroom Ingrid Johnston,Jyoti Mangat,2012-03-24 In this book Johnston and Mangat consider ways in which particular postcolonial and multicultural literary texts are able to provide a space of cultural mediation for readers from various backgrounds The studies described in the five chapters of the book explore the spaces of convergence of identity culture and literature with students and teachers in high school contexts and undergraduates in university settings In each study readers are responding to texts that are culturally distant from their own literary and experiential histories An objective of each study was to consider the nature of the cultural locations of the reader and the text and the interstitial spaces between these locations The book interrogates readers attempts to negotiate cultural difference in literary contexts and questions how this negotiation requires reading practices traditionally ignored in North American classrooms

The book will offer educators at the secondary and post secondary levels rich material to draw upon for a rethinking of the school curriculum and will be of interest to scholars of postcolonial and literary studies Rehabilitation Service Series
