America contains seven of the twenty six conferences given in the winter of 1908 1909 when I was American Professor at the University of Paris on the foundation established by Mr James Hazen Hyde of Harvard They were delivered in English repeated in part at the other universities of France and published in French in the spring of 1909 under the title of Le Genie de l Amerique It has not seemed worthwhile to try to disguise the fact that these chapters were prepared as lectures and that their purpose was to promote a good understanding between France and the United States Indeed this very fact may lend some interest to the book at least for those readers who rejoice in the deepened friendship between the two Republics a friendship now doubly sealed with the blood of heroes My words may not have done much to strengthen that sacred brotherhood in the cause of freedom and fair play which united France and America in the world war but perhaps they did a little I am glad that i had the chance to speak them just so in Paris five years before the great ordeal came to try the souls of men and nations I still believe that a just peace is worth fighting for I still believe that the nations must have a compact together to establish and defend it on the basis of right above might I still believe that the Spirit of America will lead and compel her to covenant with the other nations great and small to protect peace Henry Van Dyke October 5 1920
