Spirit and Ritual Robert L. Thorp, Virginia Bower, Metropolitan Museum of Art (New York, N.Y.), 1982 Suspended Music Lothar von Falkenhausen, 1994-03-16 The Chinese made the world's first bronze chime bells which they used to perform ritual music particularly during the Shang and Zhou dynasties ca 1700-221 B.C. Lothar von Falkenhausen's rich and detailed study reconstructs how the music of these bells, the only Bronze Age instruments that can still be played, may have sounded and how it was conceptualized in theoretical terms. His analysis and discussion of the ritual, political, and technical aspects of this music provide a unique window into ancient Chinese culture. This is the first interdisciplinary perspective on recent archaeological finds that have transformed our understanding of ancient Chinese music. Of great significance to the understanding of Chinese culture in its crucial formative stage, it provides a fresh point of departure for exploring later Asian musical history and offers great possibilities for comparisons with music worldwide. Changing Gods in Medieval China, 1127-1276 Valerie Hansen, 2014-07-14 In her study of medieval Chinese lay practices and beliefs Valerie Hansen argues that social and economic developments underlay religious changes in the Southern Song Unfamiliar with the contents of Buddhist and Daoist texts the common people hired the practitioner or prayed to the god they thought could cure the ill or bring rain As the economy rapidly developed the gods like the people who worshiped them diversified their realm of influence expanded as some gods began to deal on the national grain market and others advised their followers on business transactions In order to trace this evolution the author draws information from temple inscriptions literary notes the administrative law code and local histories By contrasting differing rates of religious change in the lowland and highland regions of the lower Yangzi valley Hansen suggests that the commercial and social developments were far less uniform than previously thought In 1100 nearly all people in South China worshiped gods who had been local residents prior to their deaths The increasing mobility of cultivators in the lowland rice growing regions resulted in the adoption of gods from other places Cults in the isolated mountain areas showed considerably less change Originally published in 1990 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905 New York Magazine ,1982-07-26 New York magazine was born in 1968 after a run as an insert of the New York Herald Tribune and quickly made a place for itself as the trusted resource for readers across the country With award winning writing and photography covering everything from politics and food to theater and fashion the magazine s consistent mission has been to reflect back to its audience the energy and excitement of the city itself while celebrating New York as both a place and an idea Chinese Works of Art, Spring 1998 Weisbrod Chinese Art, Ltd,1998 Cultural Convergence in the Northern Qi Period Suzanne G.
