study of Virginia Woolf D H Lawrence Joyce Cary Lawrence Durrell and A S Byatt focuses on color space and creativity in selected novels stories travel texts essays and letters Stewart highlights a nexus of color space and creativity that takes on ontological dimensions in the writing of five writers who are linked by stylistic affinities and correspondingly calibrated sensibilities They engage writing with painting and their acts of attention converge in a zone where color space and creativity sustain the imaginative life world of their characters This study should lead to ongoing reflections on the roles of color and space in modernist and postmodernist texts and direct attention to the subtle and pervasive interactions of literature with painting BOOK JACKET Heresy and Heterotopia in Works by Lawrence Durrell Anne R.

Zahlan, Isabelle Keller-Privat, 2025-03-15 Heresy and Heterotopia in Works by Lawrence Durrell Alexandria to Angkor Wat gathers new essays by international scholars who examine heretical concepts and heterotopian counter spaces in Durrell's thought and writing The volume includes studies of texts set in locations from the Mediterranean to Cambodia with spatial focus ranging from the Egypt of The Alexandria Quartet and of Anatole France's Thaïs to the scattered locations of The Avignon Quintet with stops along the way for the island books and other treatments of wandering and exile in poetry as well as prose The contributors approach Durrell's texts from a variety of perspectives philosophical and intertextual architectural and historical mystical and digital In so doing they expose the deeper echoes set off by his wide ranging literary production and map out the metaphysical literary and aesthetic connections that account for Durrell's impact on our understanding of those twentieth century social and cultural paradigms that foreshadow the disruptions of today's world There and Back

Again Mark Atherton, 2012-08-20 Even the smallest person can change the course of the future Addressed to Frodo as he prepared to travel from Lothlórien to Mordor to destroy the One Ring the prophetic words of Galadriel in the film The Fellowship of the Ring are just as pertinent to J.R.R. Tolkien's own fiction For decades hobbits elves dwarves dragons and the other fantastical creatures of Middle-earth have captured the imaginations of a fiercely loyal tribe of readers all enhanced by the immense success of Peter Jackson's films first The Lord of the Rings trilogy and now his new The Hobbit But for all Tolkien's global fame and the familiarity of modern culture with Gandalf Bilbo Frodo and Sam the sources of the great mythmaker's own mythmaking have been neglected Mark Atherton here explores the chief influences on The Hobbit Tolkien's boyhood in the West Midlands the landscapes and seascapes which shaped his mythologies his formative experiences in the First World War his studies in Norse mythology and medieval English literature his love of language and dialect and proverb and saying his literary friendships especially with C.S. Lewis and the Oxford-based Inklings and the relevance of his themes especially ecological themes to the present day There and Back Again offers a unique guide to the varied inspirations behind Tolkien's life and work and sheds new light on how a legend is born Essential reading for all those who love and admire the rich and complex topographies of Middle-earth the book will also have great appeal to students of literature history and myth It is the first to show in depth from where Tolkien drew creativity and how these myriad resources inspired him to craft the most remarkable fantasy novels ever written densely packed with fauna from another world Place Justin Fox, 2023-10-20

Lawrence's Sardinia Nick Ceramella, Daniele Marzeddu, 2022-11-14 The volume offers a wide horizon on D.H. Lawrence's search for an ideal primitive society in a pristine natural environment It lends itself to an interesting comparison with today's reality with a particular focus on Sardinia It combines literature and photography in order to analyse Sicilian and Sardinian society The volume investigates aspects which have hardly been considered in depth in previous publications on Lawrence's Sea and Sardinia such as the strongly stressed ecological approach that makes Lawrence an incredible writer of our time the role of Sardinian women as opposed to that of men as seen by Lawrence and the importance of food and traditional costumes as persistent symbols of local identity Lawrence Durrell Ian S. Durrell Re-read James M. Clawson, 2016-06-20 Reading the twelve major novels of Lawrence Durrell this study argues for their consideration as a single major project an opus marked by themes of liminality and betweenness As major texts of mid twentieth century literature repeatedly earning nominations for the Nobel Prize Durrell's work has attracted renewed critical attention since his centenary in 2012 This study shows the thematic unity of the opus in five areas First by disrupting expectations of love and death and by fashioning plural narrators works in the opus blend notions of the subject and the object Second in their use of metafictional elements the texts present themselves as neither fiction nor reality Third their approach to place and identity offers something between the naturalistic and the human centric Fourth though the texts initial concerns are engaged with understanding the past and preparing for a future they all resolve in something like the present And fifth though the novels reject many aspects of modernism they reside nevertheless between the poles of modernism and postmodernism Shared with other writers including T S Eliot and Henry Miller as early as the 1940s Durrell's plans for his major works of fiction remained consistent through the publication of the last novel in 1985 and these plans show the need to consider the twelve major works as a unitary whole British Writing, Propaganda and Cultural

Environment, Space, Place: Volume 8, Issue 1 (Spring 2016) C. Patrick Heidkamp; Troy Paddock; Christine Petto, CONTENTS Victor COUNTED Making Sense of Place Attachment Towards a Holistic Understanding of People Place Relationships and Experiences ABSTRACT The article is an attempt to make sense of the different interdisciplinary perspectives associated with people s attachment to places with a view to construct a holistic template for understanding peopleplace relationships and experiences We took note of the theoretical contributions of Jorgensen a theory of evolved tastes such as that developed by Dennis Dutton and an aesthetics of evolving nature based on Carlson s positive aesthetics After exploring both theories I argue that while the two positions approach aesthetics from different directions they support similar aesthetic judgments concerning landscapes and this suggests that the two positions might be incorporated into a broader theory of evolutionary aesthetics Th at theory is briefly outlined and applied to both natural landscapes and parks Jeffrey B WEBB Watershed Redesign in the Upper Wabash River Drainage Area 1870 1970 ABSTRACT The Huntington Salamonie and Mississinewa reservoirs in northern Indiana control seasonal flooding in the Upper Wabash River drainage area They appeared in the 1960s after a long period of study and planning in response to large scale flooding in central and southern Indiana in the first half of the twentieth century Their construction disrupted the pattern of human ecology along the Wabash and its tributaries for many of the watershed s inhabitants Supporters touted the Winnie L M YEE Fashion Affect and Poetry in a Global City ABSTRACT Everyday life is a central theme of Hong Kong poetry. Many Hong Kong poets use the quotidian as a starting point for the exploration of history and alternative imaginings. This is a mundane focus unlike the colonial dreamscape of Hong Kong as an economic miracle allows writers to reflect upon Hong Kong as a post colonial and global space. The Hong Kong writer Natalia Chan examines the complex nature of everyday life within the space of the global and post colonial city. Chan's poems deal with the essence of everydayness and use commodities to conjure up the vivacity of the urban landscape of Hong Kong. Unlike the political and economic discourse that is usually used to define Hong Kong, Chan's work portrays Hong Kong as a city that offers the possibility of daily recreation against the background of history. In this article we will examine Chan's use of the circulation of commodities in the global world and explore the way fashion becomes a point where high and popular culture, private and public domains, and local and global interests clash, negotiate and fertilize each other. Chan's works do not conform to the economic and prosperity discourse that has repressed Hong Kong; rather she guides her readers to re-experience the everydayness of routines, to celebrate alternate ways of understanding the urban landscape and to open themselves to the potentialities of art and the everyday.

Emmanuel YEWAH African Documentaries Films Texts and Environmental Issues ABSTRACT This study draws from theoretical environmental debates as well as a selection of films, documentaries and texts to discuss Africans' approaches to environmental and ecological problems. Informed by African indigenous knowledge, those strategies do involve community-based, micro-level initiatives, grassroots organizations, ancestral spirits, and use local languages or lingua franca to educate as well as prod the people's consciousness about environmental and ecological issues.

REVIEWS Lorna Lueker ZUKAS Forgotten World Directed by Terri Ella Derek SHANAHAN The View from the Train Cities and Other Landscapes By Patrick Keiller The Eye of the Xenos, Letters about Greece (Durrell Studies 3) Richard Pine, Vera Konidari, 2021-05-04 The condition of Greece ever since its establishment as a sovereign state in 1830 has been the subject of intense international debate centring on its pivotal role in the Balkans. This has been aggravated by Greece's economic collapse in 2010 and by the ongoing refugee crisis, by environmental disasters, terrorism and the Macedonian question. This book's analysis and assessment of Greek social, cultural and political life is trenchant, up-front and passionate, based on the author's belief that one cannot love Greece without also mourning the fault lines in bureaucracy and the dynastic politics which have dominated it since its inception. This book features a selection of the author's Letters from Greece from The Irish Times and his Eye of the Xenos from the Greek newspaper Kathimerini in its entirety in both English.
