Cantonese as Written Language Don Snow, 2004-10-01 Cantonese is the only dialect of Chinese which has developed a widely known and used written form It has played a role in publishing in the Guangdong region since the late Ming dynasty when various types of verses using Cantonese were published as mu yu shu wooden fish books In the early twentieth century these dialect texts were joined by Cantonese opera scripts published as popular reading material However it was only after the end of the Second World War that written Cantonese came to be widely used in popular newspapers and magazines advertising and in the private communications Cantonese as Written Language examines this development in the broader context of diglossia and also of the patterns by which spoken vernaculars have developed written forms in other societies Based on primary source research including interviews with publishers and writers who played an important role in the growth of written Cantonese the author argues that this move of Cantonese into the realm of written language is closely associated with Hong Kong's distinct local culture and identity The growth of the written vernacular also reflects the

A Synchronic and Diachronic Study of the Grammar of the Chinese Xiang Dialects Yunji Wu, 2011-06-24 This is the first book in Chinese linguistics which discusses the grammar of a dialect group in this case the Xiang dialect spoken in Hunan from both a synchronic and diachronic perspective The author uses new data and new frameworks to present her analysis The synchronic part covers contemporary grammar across localities within the Xiang speaking area by using the methods and theories of comparative and typological linguistics The diachronic analysis reconstructs earlier grammatical systems based mainly on modern data but also on historical written records and analyses the development of the syntactic systems of the Xiang dialects adopting the methods and theories of historical linguistics and grammaticalization The discussions in this book raise new issues on dialect research which have not yet been fully acknowledged by Chinese dialectologists The author shows for example how the earlier layers of grammar may be reconstructed on the basis of modern data and how the path of grammaticalization of functional words may be traced The discussions reveal that the Xiang dialect group forms a transitional zone between northern and southern dialects The syntactic constructions in these two areas often co exist or are mingled in Xiang Thus the grammatical constructions in different localities of the Xiang dialect group often provide a bridge connecting the constructions of northern and southern Chinese or Modern Chinese and Chinese of earlier periods This book is of interest to scholars and students who are working on grammar dialectology historical linguistics comparative linguistics typological linguistics and grammaticalization as well as those researchers focusing on language policy language acquisition and education

A Chinese-English Dictionary Herbert Allen Giles, 1892

Language Policy in the People's Republic of China Minglang Zhou, Hongkai Sun, 2006-04-11 Language matters in China It is about power identity opportunities and above all passion and nationalism During the past five decades China's language engineering projects transformed its linguistic landscape affecting over one billion people's lives including both the majority and minority populations The Han majority have been juggling between their home vernaculars and the official speech Putonghua a speech of no native speakers and reading their way through a labyrinth of the traditional simplified and Pinyin Roman scripts. Moreover, the various minority groups have been struggling between their native languages and Chinese, maintaining the former for their heritages and identities and learning the latter for quality education and socioeconomic advancement. The contributors of this volume provide the first comprehensive scrutiny of this sweeping linguistic revolution from three unique perspectives. First, outside scholars critically question the parities between constitutional rights and actual practices and between policies and outcomes. Second, inside policy practitioners review their own project involvements and inside politics, pondering over missteps, undergoing soul searching and theorizing their personal experiences. Third, scholars of minority origin give inside views of policy implementations and challenges in their home communities. The volume sheds light on the complexity of language policy making and implementing as well as on the politics and ideology of language in contemporary China. Proceedings of the Tenth Seminar of the IATS, 2003. Volume 1: Medieval Tibeto-Burman Languages II, 2006-02-01

While providing unique and detailed information on early Tibeto-Burman languages and their contact and relationship to other languages, this book at the same time sets out to establish a field of Tibeto-Burman comparative historical linguistics based on the classical Indo-European model. With papers by C. Bauer on Burmese and Mon, C. Beckwith on Old Tibetan syllable margins, B. Zeisler on Tibetan case marking, R. Yanson on Burmese historical phonology, G. Jacques on Tangut rimes, K. Iwasa on early Lolo manuscripts, V. Kasevich on the causative in Tibeto-Burman and C. Beckwith on Old Tibetan and Old Chinese reconstruction. With an extensive Introduction to theoretical problems of the linguistics of Tibeto-Burman and other East and Southeast Asian languages. Chinese Language Use by School-Aged Chinese Australians Yilu Yang, 2022-11-30. This book examines the use of Chinese by school-aged Chinese Australians from a dual-track culturalisation perspective. Drawing upon interviews, participant observations and documentary analysis, the author discusses why and how these children learn and use Chinese in multiple social settings and how they construct their understanding of language and identities in doing so. The book will appeal to students and scholars in the fields of sociolinguistics, migration studies, sociology of education, language and communication amongst other areas in the social sciences. Multilingual Global Cities Peter Siemund, Jakob R.E. Leimgruber, 2020-11-29. This volume sets out to investigate the linguistic ecologies of Singapore, Hong Kong and Dubai with chapters that combine empirical and theoretical approaches to the sociolinguistics of multilingualism. One important feature of this publication is that the five parts of the collection deal with such key issues as the historical dimension, language policies and language planning, contemporary societal multilingualism, multilingual language acquisition and the localized Englishes of global cities. The first four sections of the volume provide a multi-levelled and finely detailed description of multilingual diversity of three global cities while the final section discusses postcolonial Englishes in the context of multilingual language acquisition and language contact. Luzac's Oriental List and Book Review, 1905. The Chinese Mosaic Leo J. Moser, 2019-06-18. Although the Han Chinese constitute about 95 percent of the population of the PRC, they are much more diverse than most Westerners realize The numerous subgroups of Han speak dialects that seem almost like different languages and they have a wide range of cultural traditions differing cuisines operatic forms life styles and attitudes toward
