Subject Analysis In Online Catalogs:

Subject Analysis in Online Catalogs Hope A. Olson, John J. Boll, 2001-09-15 A detailed analysis of the complex process of providing subject access in online catalogues The text examines the interaction of the several necessary components such as the catalogue database users hardware and software and search and retrieval software Subject Control in Online

Catalogs Robert P Holley, 1990-01-23 Is the quality of subject access significantly better with the online catalog than with the card catalogs For many years librarians have been discontent with the quality of subject access in card catalogs and they hoped that the online catalog would offer significant improvements This new book addresses this question from five different perspectives research studies opinion pieces from public and technical services librarians special needs the international perspective and a comprehensive annotated bibliography of previous work By exploring the progress of the online catalog to date and making suggestions for future research the contributors to Subject Control in Online Catalogs provide important reading for public services and technical services librarians as well as systems librarians In one this single volume you will find research studies promising new paths for systems developments descriptions of international developments that have vital implications for American subject access and the valuable perspectives of innovative public and technical services librarians

Subject Analysis in Online Catalogs Rao Aluri, 1991 Introduction to Cataloging and Classification Daniel N. Joudrey, Arlene G. Taylor, David P. Miller, 2015-09-29 A new edition of this best selling textbook reintroduces the topic of library cataloging from a fresh modern perspective Not many books merit an eleventh edition but this popular text does Newly updated Introduction to Cataloging and Classification provides an introduction to descriptive cataloging based on contemporary standards explaining the basic tenets to readers without previous experience as well as to those who merely want a better understanding of the process as it exists today The text opens with the foundations of cataloging then moves to specific details and subject matter such as Functional Requirements for Bibliographic Records FRBR Functional Requirements for Authority Data FRAD the International Cataloging Principles ICP and RDA Unlike other texts the book doesn't presume a close familiarity with the MARC bibliographic or authorities formats ALA's Anglo American Cataloging Rules 2nd Edition revised AACR2R or the International Standard Bibliographic Description ISBD Subject access to library materials is covered in sufficient depth to make the reader comfortable with the principles and practices of subject cataloging and classification In addition the book introduces MARC BIBFRAME and other approaches used to communicate and display bibliographic data Discussions of formatting presentation and administrative issues complete the book questions useful for review and study appear at the end of each chapter Encyclopedia of Library and Information Science Allen

Kent, 1997-05-08 Supplement 23 AIDS HIV Programs and Services in Libraries to User Interface Evaluation Library of Congress Subject Headings Library of Congress, Library of Congress. Subject Cataloging Division, Library of Congress.

Office for Subject Cataloging Policy, 2013 The Organization of Information Arlene G. Taylor, Daniel N. Joudrey, 2008-12-23

This third edition of Taylor's modern classic continues to articulate the theory principles standards and tools behind information organization. As with previous editions it begins with strong justification for the continued importance of organizing principles and practice. Following a broad overview of the concept and its role in human endeavors Taylor and Joudrey provide a detailed and insightful discussion of such basic retrieval tools as inventories bibliographies catalogs indexes finding aids registers databases major bibliographic utilities and other organizing entities and subsequently trace the development of the organization of recorded information in Western civilization from 2000 B C E to the present. Standards of codification MARC SGML and various DTDs controlled vocabularies and ontologies and Web 2.0 technologies are but a sample of its extensive topical coverage. The Organization of Information remains the title of choice for students and professionals eager to embrace the heritage immediacy and future of this fascinating field of study.

Reference Services and Technical Services Gordon Stevenson, Sally Stevenson, 2019-12-05 This book first published in 1984 analyses the provision of more effective library service by relying more heavily on collaboration between reference and technical services librarians.

Relationships in the Organization of Knowledge A. Bean, R. Green, 2013-04-17 Relationships abound in the library and information science LIS world. Those relationships may be social in nature as for instance when we deal with human relationships among library personnel or relationships i.e. public relations between an information center and its clientele. The relationships may be educational as for example when we examine the relationship between the curriculum of an accredited school and the needs of the work force it is preparing students to join. Or the relationships may be economic as when we investigate the relationship between the cost of journals and the frequency with which they are cited. Many of the relationships of concern to us reflect phenomena entirely internal to the field: the relationship between manuscript collections archives and special collections the relationship between end user search behavior and the effectiveness of searches the relationship between access to and use of information resources the relationship between recall and precision the relationship between various bibliometric laws etc. The list of such relationships could go on and on. The relationships addressed in this volume are restricted to those involved in the organization of recorded knowledge which tend to have a conceptual or semantic basis although statistical means are sometimes used in their discovery.

The Organization of Information Daniel N. Joudrey, 2025-09-04 Organizing information is at the heart of the information professions and the fifth edition of The Organization of Information is a key resource for anyone seeking up to date guidance. For millennia information organization has been central to the functioning of libraries and other information institutions. The fifth edition of The Organization of Information provides a timely detailed introduction to organizing in a variety of information contexts including library cataloging archival description indexing museum registration metadata creation for digital collections organizing on the web linked data and the development of the Semantic Web. Examining how and why information professionals organize information in contemporary libraries archives museums and in a variety of online settings expert

Daniel N Joudrey addresses the types of retrieval tools used throughout information organizations the functionality of information systems and the role and effect of technology on information organization A discussion of encoding follows explaining the basics of the MARC format several XML schemas and the developing BIBFRAME standard A section on the principles and functionality of metadata covers metadata types metadata characteristics and tools used to manage metadata projects A timely new chapter on conceptual models and frameworks articulates the visions behind the Library Reference Model LRM Records in Contexts RiC and the Semantic Web including a discussion of RDF as its underlying structural model Finally the latter portion of the book describes practices related to the creation of descriptive metadata Providing a thorough overview of the field s major issues challenges and standards The Organization of Information is an essential resource for students in library and information science programs as well as for established professionals who want to refresh their knowledge of the latest developments in the field
