Suffolks Historic Farms:

Suffolk's Historic Farms Peter Hopper, 2004-06 Suffolk is a farming county with a rich agricultural heritage In this new book inspired by his weekly column in the East Anglian Daily Times Peter Hopper features eight of Suffolk's most ancient and interesting farming estates revealing their history through the stories of the generations of families that have lived and farmed there He has uncovered a wealth of fascinating detail through interviews and research and his account is illustrated with photographs of some of the most picturesque corners of the county The moated St John's Manor Farm at Battisford near Stowmarket has existed for more than 1 000 years and was once owned by the Order of St John the Knights Hospitaller while Glemham Hall at Little Glemham has been home to the Cobbold brewing family since 1923 The first member of the family to live there was Captain John Ivan Murray Cobbold the first chairman of Ipswich Town after the club turned professional in 1936 Priory Farm at Preston St Mary near Lavenham boasts the splendid and historically important timber frame barn that was once used as the famous auction rooms in the popular TV series Lovejoy and a Roman site on the farm was excavated by Channel 4's Time Team Kentwell Hall at Long Melford regularly hosts Tudor re-creation days which give visitors a flavour of what it would have been like to live and work on the estate in the 16th century With his journalist's eye Peter Hopper has picked out gems of information and interesting asides to add depth to his survey of these historically important farms Readers will learn about an attempt to reintroduce a butterfly extinct in the county discover how many oaks it took to build an average mediaeval house in Suffolk and read about the hoarder who eventually established a farm museum to display his collection Suffolk County Farm and Home Bureau News, 1927
