Kwan Creation, History and Evolution Len Losik, 2016-08-11 Tang Soo Do Chung Do Kwan describes the creation history and evolution of the first Korean Kwan to teach martial arts called Tang Soo Do in late 1944 by the Ching Do Kwan founder Grandmaster Won Kuk Lee who was the first Korean martial arts Master to use the name Tang Soo Do to describe the Japanese style of Korean Karate he taught. It was also Korea's first Post World War II martial art that would get Grandmaster Won Kuk Lee arrested, imprisoned and put on trial as a Japanese sympathizer because he was allowed to teach Tang Soo Do with the Japanese still in control of Korea and later his Tang Soo Do was so successful it became a threat to the new Korean independent government that his reputation was tarnished. The author describes Chung Do Kwan's travels through the new post World War II Korean government's work to close the Chung Do Kwan Tang Soo Do and the government forces that wanted Chung Do Kwan Tang Soo Do to be changed to Chung Do Kwan Tae Kwon Do. The author includes Grandmaster Won Kuk Lee's relationship with the Japanese occupying forces in Korea that allowed him to teach Tang Soo Do just before the Japanese were forced to leave Korea by the U S Military and the U S military General that invited Grandmaster Won Kuk Lee to immigrate to the United States and avoid his enemies in the new young independent Korean government that was destroying many Korean martial arts founders they could call a Japanese sympathizer from an earlier time. The author describes the entire evolution of the Chung Do Kwan Tang Soo Do as the first Kwan to teach Tang Soo Do and as a political entity for the Korean government. Grandmaster Won Kuk Lee's many contributions to the development of Chung Do Kwan Tae Kwon Do and Grandmaster Won Kuk Lee's dedication to Taekwondo's journey to the 1988 Olympics. This book is for the experienced and serious Korean martial arts enthusiast. The Kwans of Tang Soo Do A New Look at Old Traditions

Tang Soo Do a Korean Martial Art Question and Answer Book

Len Losik, Ph.D., Len Losik Ph D, 2017-01-27

This book is but one source of many regarding the popular but all too fictitious facts about Korean martial arts. Since oral traditions dominate as the source of most historical information about the history and evolution of Korean martial arts and Korean ancient fighting arts, there is no shortage of experts and no shortest of critics. One cannot be qualified as knowledgeable simply by the time spent in the physical training of Tang Soo Do while allowed to ignore the academic aspects. This author's facts and suggestions are no more correct or valid than any other person's that publish what they have learned or been exposed to. Since almost all known sources of historical information about ancient and recent Korean martial arts and fighting arts was destroyed and then rewritten by the Japanese occupational forces during the 19th and 20th century occupation of Korea, there is no one person regardless of their title or time in training who can have any more verifiable information than the rest of us. Again, due to the extermination and conversion of nearly all historical facts on Korean martial arts and Korean history, any Grandmaster, Master, and Instructor can be an expert using the fictitious facts they get exposed to during their training and only then can just state their personnel opinions, and opinions are not facts. This book and all books simply provide the author's perspective as only any book can, and particularly books on Korean martial arts. For those individuals who want people to read the books from whom they believe have the correct facts, we know that as fascism. For those practitioners who need to believe that their Grandmaster, Master, or Instructor is THE source of all correct information about Tang Soo Do and Korean Martial Arts, these same people need to believe that only they know who the true experts are and so can not value the contributions of others' ideas and perspectives. We usually call this behavior when followers believe that there is only one all-knowing all-seeing person and they know who it is, as cult behavior, and cults are illegal in the United States but not Korea. It is our freedom of speech that motivates authors to write and publish books with new and different interpretations of age-old facts and common knowledge so let the community decide the worth of what is published. This small book presents simple and complex answers and suggestions to just a few of the many questions that ought to get asked during Tang Soo Do training, and these are solely the author's opinions and interpretations. Students and instructors in Tang Soo Do should ask these and many others and answer for themselves at sometime in their training. Most books on Tang Soo Do show the wonderful physical aspects and results from the training with little regard for an academic education in the style they train in. It is hoped by the author that the questions and answers in this book will spark more serious discussions and dialog, not less, as many suggest, and to help to expose what historical references exist as the fiction they are, as all history books are fiction. History is all fiction and usually written by the victor. For those who find this book unacceptable, please use this book as the motivation to write and publish your own book and contribute to the community in a meaningful way. Those that complain the quickest and the most are the least likely to do the work others do and provide their own opinions for others to scrutinize. It's always easier to be critical of the work of others than expose what you know and what you don't. The knowledge of Tang Soo Do training is not in the hands of a few individuals but spread throughout every school and is in the minds of every person working to get better and be a better person in Tang Soo Do. Use the knowledge that when criticism for others comes to you easier than praise all your training didn't stick but was left at the door jam when you left the dojang.

Odo Kwan Tang Soo Do Korea's Karate Len Losik, Ph.d., Len Losik Ph.D., 2016-08-23. Odo Kwan Tang Soo Do Korea's Karate describes the creation history and evolution of the Korean Kwan by the founder Grandmaster Choi Hong Hi who was ordered by the Korean government to unite the many privately owned martial arts Kwans after World War II so that Korea would have an Olympic martial arts sport. The author describes the Japanese style of Korean Karate Major General Choi taught as a Korean martial art. The Odo Kwan, one of Korea's post World War II martial art that would have Major General Choi lose his Ambassadorship position with the Korean government who created the first international Taekwondo organization required so that Taekwondo could become an Olympic sport. The author described how Brigadier General Choi would and become a threat to the Korean independent government that wanted to gain control of his international organization that would allow Taekwondo to become an Olympic sport. The author describes Odo Kwan's travels through the post World War II Korean government's desire to convert Korea's version of Japanese karate Do called Tang Soo Do to a uniquely Korean martial art called Taekwondo and receive the Korean government's support and funding to get Taekwondo into the Olympics. The author includes Grandmaster Choi Hong Hi's raising in Japan that would later be used by government officials to get him fired from his Ambassadorship to Malaysia and replace him with other government officials who would allow full control of the international acceptance of Taekwondo that would allow Taekwondo into the Olympics. Realizing he had enemies in the Korean government after decades of working to unite the Korean martial arts community and create the first international Taekwondo organization and then be forced to immigrate to Canada and avoid his enemies in the first independent Korean government since 1870 that was searching to destroy anyone they could call a Japanese sympathizer. The author describes the entire evolution of the Odo Kwan Tang Soo Do as a political entity and its contribution to the development of Odo Kwan's creation of Taekwon-do from Tang Soo Do and the international Telemetry Federation ITF and creation of Korea's World Taekwondo Federation WTF and WTF's Taekwondo's journey from the dirt floors of the first Korean martial arts Kwans after World War II to the beautiful Korean Kukkiwon and Taekwondo's acceptance into the 1988 Olympics. This book is for the more experienced martial arts reader and serious Korean martial arts enthusiast and not recommended for inexperienced martial art genre readers who may have inability to understand the importance of the successes a third world country that Korea was after World War II and the Korean war and its unification of the independent Korean martial arts community to overcome to get Taekwondo into the Olympics.
