The Last Books of H.G. Wells HG Wells, Rudy Rucker, Colin Wilson, 2013-04-02 This volume contains the two last works by HG Wells Nearing the end of his life increasingly distressed over the war Wells deals with death and apocalypse mortality and religion and with human insufficiency Mind at the End of its Tether One approaches it with awe You come across references to it everywhere Colin Wilson Priestly Koestler It seems to have been a wounding work something no one could agree with but something that couldn't be taken lightly Art Beck In the face of our universal inadequacy man must go steeply up or down and the odds seem to be all in favor of his going down and out If he goes up then so great is the adaptation demanded of him that he must cease to be a man Ordinary man is at the end of his tether HG Wells The Happy Turning Wells barbed fantasies about the afterlife take the forms of happy dream walks In one he converses with Jesus But being crucified upon the irreparable things that one has done realizing that one has failed that you have let yourself down and your poor silly disciples down and mankind down that the God in you has deserted you that was the ultimate torment Even on the cross I remember shouting out something about it Eli Eli lama sabachthani I said Did someone get that down he replied Don't you read the Gospels Good God No he said How can I I was crucified before all that

The Last Book Sam Pickering, 2001 Readers familiar with Sam Pickering's delightful essays will certainly hope that the title of his latest collection is not intended as prophecy A true original Pickering offers observation on everyday life that never fail to sparkle with wit insight amusement and wonder Freely blending fact with fiction Writing makes liars of us all he notes Pickering ranges easily and amiably from his home base in Storrs Connecticut to his roots in middle Tennessee with numerous side trips to observe the natural world to refelct on the bonds of family and friends One essay finds him playing auctioneer at a local arts council event jollyng the attendees with tattered country tales and fanciful extravagant claims for items being sold In another piece his tongue in cheek remarks about the split infinitive when quoted in a newspaper ignite a small controversy that lands him on radio talk shows and provokes a flood of sometimes angry e mail Yet whenever the irritations of the human world become a bit too wearyng Pickering finds ready refreshment in the doings of birds and insects and the splash of sunlight on a tree or flower Throughout these sixteen essays Pickering implicitly heeds the advice he offers his son just before the boy much meet the parents of his prom date The good storyteller I instructed Francis heaps paragraph upon paragraph just like a waitress serving mashed potatoes in a family style restaurant Having dined at the table of a master storyteller readers will depart this collection feeling fully sated indeed well nourished The Author A native of Major Trends in the Post-independence Indian English Fiction B. R. Agrawal, M. P. Sinha, 2003. This book presents a reasonably comprehensive account of the development of the Indian English novel since independence. The novel during the colonial period has a different outlook and was more concerned with the problems of the Indian people suffering under the British yoke. After independence, the Indian writers looked at the Indian scene from the postcolonial point of view. There were new hopes, no doubt, but the problems—social, economic, religious, political, and familial—that were submerged in the flood of the national movement emerged and drew attention of the creative writers. The partition, the communal riots, after partition, the problem of casteism, the subjugation of women, the poverty of the illiterate masses became the focal points. Mulk Raj Anand, Raja Rao, R. K. Narayan, Nayantara Sahgal, and Kamala Markandaya, in the beginning, wrote novels of social realism. In the fifties, but after the sixties, new trends emerged. Writers like Anita Desai, Ruth Praver, Jhabvala, Bhabani Bhattacharya, G. V. Desani, Chaman Nahal, Manohar Malgonkar, and B. Rajan portrayed the picture of the post-independence Indian society. The stream of the early fifties now turned into a broad river with new currents and cross currents. The old traditional method of novel writing gave way to modern techniques. The Indian English novel took further strides in the eighties and the decades that followed it. Salman Rushdie can be said to be the leader of the new trend. Shashi Deshpande and Arundhati Roy followed suit. This book is divided into six chapters. It surveys and discusses the major trends in the post-independence Indian English novel. The major writers discussed, apart from the trio R. K. Narayan, Raja Rao, and Mulk Raj Anand, are Bhabani Bhattacharya, Nayantara Sahgal, Ruth Praver, Jhabvala, Anita Desai, Arundhati Roy, and Kamala Markandaya. This book will be of immense help to the students of Indian English fiction and the general reader.
