Tropical Rain Forests Richard T. Corlett, Richard B. Primack, 2011-03-03 The first edition of Tropical Rain Forests an Ecological and Biogeographical Comparison exploded the myth of the rain forest as a single uniform entity In reality the major tropical rain forest regions in tropical America Africa Southeast Asia Madagascar and New Guinea have as many differences as similarities as a result of their isolation from each other during the evolution of their floras and faunas This new edition reinforces this message with new examples from recent and on going research After an introduction to the environments and geological histories of the major rain forest regions subsequent chapters focus on plants primates carnivores and plant eaters birds fruit bats and gliding animals and insects with an emphasis on the ecological and biogeographical differences between regions This is followed by a new chapter on the unique tropical rain forests of oceanic islands The final chapter which has been completely rewritten deals with the impacts of people on tropical rain forests and discusses possible conservation strategies that take into account the differences highlighted in the previous chapters This exciting and very readable book illustrated throughout with color photographs will be invaluable reading for undergraduate students in a wide range of courses as well as an authoritative reference for graduate and professional ecologists conservationists and interested amateurs

Breeding of Ornamental Crops: Potted Plants and Shrubs Jameel M. Al-Khayri, Shri Mohan Jain, Muneeb Ahmad Wani, 2025-05-02 Flowers and other ornamental plants are used for all occasions to meet consumers' demands preferably novel flowers' traits e.g. fragrance, flower color and shape, early flowering, less water consumption, long shelf life. The worldwide floricultural industry is worth over 50 billion Euros and can serve as a food security, socio-economic impact and generate employment. Ornamental industry is regarded as one of the fastest growing farm industries. This industry is sustained through novelty; thus, there is increasing demand on plant breeders in both public and private sectors to fulfil consumers' needs. Biotechnological approaches such as genetic transformation, genomics, nanotechnology and gene editing are well suited for designing custom-made novel traits of flowers benefiting both ornamental and cosmetic industry. Moreover, micropropagation is well exploited commercially for large-scale plant production along with vertical and digital farming and artificial intelligence especially by the floriculture industry. This book focuses on advances in breeding strategies of diverse range of ornamental plants. It is composed of 2 parts: Part I Ornamental potted plants and Part II Ornamental shrubs. Each chapter contributed by eminent authors is devoted to an individual ornamental species or a group of related species. It provides an in-depth understanding of modern breeding strategies including traditional methods and biotechnological approaches. Topics covered in each chapter in relation to the subject species include current cultivation practices and challenges, germplasm biodiversity and conservation, traditional breeding, molecular breeding, tissue culture applications, genetic engineering and gene editing, mutation breeding, hybridization and future research directions. Major concepts are illustrated with color photos.
