Rumour and Radiation Paul Hegarty, 2015-01-01 This is a book about video art and about sound art The thesis is that sound first entered the gallery via the video art of the 1960s and in so doing created an unexpected noise The early part of the book looks at this formative period and the key figures within it then jumps to the mid 1990s when video art has become such a major part of contemporary art production it no longer seems an autonomous form Paul Hegarty considers the work of a range of artists including Steve McQueen Christian Marclay Ryan Trecartin and Jane and Louise Wilson proposing different theories according to the particular strategy of the artist under discussion Connecting them all are the twinned ideas of intermedia and synaesthesia Hegarty offers close readings of video works as influenced by their sound while also considering the institutional and material contexts Applying contemporary sound theory to the world of video art Paul Hegarty offers an entirely fresh perspective on the interactions between sound sound art and the visual

All Ears Peter Szendy, 2016-12-01. The world of international politics has recently been rocked by a seemingly endless series of scandals involving auditory surveillance: the NSA's warrantless wiretapping is merely the most sensational example of what appears to be a universal practice today. What is the source of this generalized principle of eavesdropping? All Ears: The Aesthetics of Espionage traces the long history of moles from the Bible through Jeremy Bentham's panacoustic project all the way to the intelligence gathering network called Echelon. Together with this archeology of auditory surveillance, Szendy offers an engaging account of spycraft's representations in literature (Sophocles, Shakespeare, Joyce, Kafka, Borges), opera (Monteverdi, Mozart, Berg) and film (Lang, Hitchcock, Coppola, De Palma). Following in the footsteps of Orpheus, the book proposes a new concept of overhearing that connects the act of spying to an excessive intensification of listening. At the heart of listening, Szendy locates the ear of the Other that manifests itself as the originary division of a split hearing that turns the drive for mastery and surveillance into the death drive.

Science-fiction, prothèses et cyborgs Jérôme Goffette, 2019-12-30. Lunettes stimulateurs cardiaques, prothèses dentaires, audioprothèses, implants mammaires, bras mécaniques, etc. : notre monde nous plonge de plus en plus dans un univers de prothèses, le gévenant peu à peu d'entre nous y chappent. Cette hybridation passe presque inaperçue, alors même qu'elle change nos vies et notre quotidien. Elle concerne des aspects à la fois variés et essentiels : les gestes moteurs, les perceptions, l'expression de soi, l'esthétique, l'identité, l'interface et la connexion avec le monde. Les prothèses peuvent compenser une capacité défaillante. Elles peuvent aussi apporter des capacités modifiées voire inédites. Elles transforment la relation que nous entretenons avec le monde, avec autrui et avec nous-mêmes. Certaines prothèses ne relèvent plus de la compensation, mais de l'augmentation ou de la modification d'une capacité ordinaire. Il semble ainsi bienvenu d'étudier l'abondante source de réflexions prothétiques qu'apporte la science-fiction sous toutes ses formes : roman, film, bande dessinée, design, jeu vidéo, art. Les contributeurs et contributrices de cet ouvrage révèlent la richesse et la profondeur des explorations que la science-fiction a produites depuis plus d'un siècle. Elle nous donne à vivre une multitude d'expériences par procuration, qui mènent à des anticipations, à des interrogations personnelles et à des questions sociopolitiques.
