Fenn, Donald Capps, 1995-07-01 The social scientific literature on the self has been marred by a general indifference to the levels of the self that escape observation The literature on the one hand makes claims about the extent of individualism in American society or claims to see a narcissistic social character widespread in the American public On the other hand very little is known about the self at levels that escape observation but these are the levels at which the self is both most vulnerable and we argue most vital In this volume the notion of the soul is put forward as a hypothesis with which to challenge social sciences to explore the self at depths well beyond that of social relationships The Psychological Assessment of Abused and Traumatized Children , Understanding and Treating the Aggression of Children David A. Crenshaw, John B. Mordock, 2007-09 Understanding and Treating the Aggression of Children

Fawns in Gorilla Suits provides a thorough review of the theoretical and research basis of the techniques and interventions in the treatment of aggressive and sometimes violent children. This is not a dry and sterile academic review but rather one that comes from work directly in the therapy room with thousands of hurting and in many cases traumatized children. One cannot read this book without being deeply moved and touched by the pain of these children and yet also be buoyed by their courage and willingness to persevere against formidable barriers. The metaphor of the fawn in a gorilla suit is introduced followed by chapters covering developmental failures and invisible wounds, profound and unacknowledged losses, the implication of new findings from neuroscience, psychodynamics of aggressive children, risk factors when treating the traumatized child, special considerations when treating children in foster care, strengthening relationships with parents and helping them be more effective, enhancing relationships with direct care and instructional staff, developing mature defenses and coping skills, creating a therapeutic milieu for traumatized children and fostering hope and resilience.

A Handbook of Play Therapy with Aggressive Children David A. Crenshaw, John B. Mordock, 2007-11-09. This comprehensive compilation of specific and practical techniques is for child and play therapists to draw on in the treatment of aggressive children. The book is useful to new as well as seasoned child practitioners because of the broad range of the interventions and clear rationale that guides their use.

It represents over three decades of research, advocacy and pastoral theological reflection on the subject of sexual and domestic violence. Topics include intimate partner violence, sexual abuse and trauma, and clergy sexual misconduct. Controversial theological issues such as forgiveness and as well positive frameworks for fostering well being in families, church and society. Framed by a foreword and an introduction that place this work in the context of new and contemporary challenges in theory and practice, these essays show an evolution of issues and frameworks for theology, care and activism arising over time from the movement to end violence against women both within and beyond religious communities while at the same time demonstrating an unchanging core commitment to gender justice.

Crimes of Punishment Theodore L. Dorpat, 2007. This groundbreaking book by an award winning psychoanalyst and forensic psychiatrist presents a comprehensive exploration of a timely but often taboo topic: the failure of punishment to deter crime and violence, an issue that affects us both individually and as a culture. Written at the culmination of the author's fifty year career as a psychoanalyst, forensic psychologist and scholar, this wide ranging work identifies the origins of violence and investigates the surprising consequences of punishment from a multitude of perspectives. In his treatment of the topic, Dr Dorpat utilizes scientific

Tilling Sacred Grounds Phillis Isabella Sheppard, 2022-03-21. Tilling Sacred Grounds examines Black women's interiority and negotiation of race, gender and sexuality in religious spaces and religious practices. Phillis Isabella Sheppard argues for the importance of the exchange between interiority and public spaces and examines religion in cyberspace, art, ritual and street ministry. She refigures the location of religious experience by retrieving Black women's interiority as religious space. Often excluded from Black religious studies, interiority is necessary for understanding Black women's complex and even unconscious relationship with religion. The book weaves a thread by stressing that interiority has subjective, intersubjective, conscious, unconscious, and relational dimensions formed in historical and social contexts.
