The Next Generation Lives Of Third World Children:

African Potentials B Ohta, 2022-03-23 This book challenges colonial and age old Western academic views that have dominated and marginalised African indigenous knowledge system It spreads further the wings of knowledge and endeavour about an African way of thinking on conflict resolution and co existence and analytically connects this to the pursuit of Africa s sustainable development frameworks Ohta Nyamnjoh and Matsuda are teachers you always wished for but never had Together they have made this book a path breaking one and essential reading for a broad based understanding of the African mindset

Rights of the Child Brian Milne, 2015-06-30 This work reviews the progress of children s rights 25 years since the adoption of the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child It studies the progress of that human rights instrument as part of an ongoing process It examines how recent past present and future generations will benefit or suffer as part of the process in which outcomes cannot be predicted It does not project into the future Its emphasis is on a review of the period after 1989 and it comments on what has happened and offering guidance on how children s rights might progress The book presents a realistic but not always critical review of two and a half decades of intensive activity in the field of children s rights worldwide It includes both failures and examples of good practice and positive experiences It offers a review of progress and lack of progress in child rights and welfare in the twelve countries used as case studies in its predecessor The Next Generation Finally the volume considers the impact of current geopolitical and economic realities on children s rights in the early years of the twenty first century The book is a tribute to Judith Ennew and pays homage to all of the people who have contributed so much to children s rights over the years and wishes to encourage others to take up the cause

Reflecting on Ben Wisner's Contributions to Scholarship and Scholars Ben Wisner, JC Gaillard, Ilan Kelman, 2025-10-31 This book is a festschrift in tribute to Ben Wisner s contributions to disaster studies and adjacent fields of scholarship such as political ecology development and sustainability This festschrift for Ben and so The Benschrift revitalises promotes and critiques a selection of six foundational articles that span Ben s 50 year career Each article is reproduced integrally and followed by a commentary by an expert in the field and a response from Ben As a result this book not only introduces a lifetime s work to the latest generation of researchers it also contributes a meaningful dialogue across decades of scholarship expressing contemporary reflections alongside the understanding of how to engage with and improve past research Two fundamental truths stand out the value of local knowledge and the necessity of seeking root causes and radical solutions This book is an essential read for students researchers policy makers and practitioners interested in the development and evolution of disaster scholarship political ecology development and sustainability studies

Damaged Life Tod Sloan, 2016-06-10 What are the psychological problems caused by modernization How can we minimize its negative effects Modernization has brought many material benefits to us yet we are constantly told how unhappy we are crime divorce suicide depression and anxiety are rampant How can this contradiction be reconciled Damaged Life originally published in 1996 presents a powerful and progressive analysis of modernity's impact on the psyche. Tod Sloan develops an integrated theory of the self in society by combining perspectives on personality development and socio-historical processes to explore our complex response to modernization. He discusses the implications of postmodern theory for psychology and proposes concrete responses to address the issue of mass emotional suffering. His book should be read not only by those working within psychology and related disciplines such as sociology and social policy but also by anyone seeking enlightenment about the predicament of the self in contemporary society.

Deconstructing Developmental Psychology Erica Burman, 1994. This critical examination of the theories, methods, and political preoccupations that underpin modern developmental psychology will prove invaluable to students and all professionals who draw on developmental psychological theories in their work.

Work and Occupation in Modern Turkey Erol Kahveci, Nadir Sugur, Theo Nichols, 1996. Presents a cross-section of sociological case studies concerning work and occupation in Turkey, where a rapidly changing society is changing the structure of work and of people's lives, particularly in urban areas. It takes into account recent developments in the country: the growth of a large informal sector, the emergence of an industrial working class, and the declining economic and social position of state employees. A distinctive feature of the book is the direct quotations from a wide cross-section of workers, including shoe shine boys and others in the informal sector as well as coal miners, metal workers, school teachers, and small businessmen.

'Children Out of Place' and Human Rights Antonella Invernizzi, Manfred Liebel, Brian Milne, Rebecca Budde, 2016-08-12. This volume brings together tributes to Judith Ennew's work and approach based on issues related to children she once referred to as 'out of place', that is to say children whose living conditions and ways of life appear far removed from Western images of childhood. It includes contributions on working children, children living on the street, orphans, and victims of sexual exploitation. It covers developments and concepts used by Judith Ennew with an emphasis on perspectives of children's human rights, their participation, cultural sensitivity, research methodology, methods, ethics, monitoring, policy making, and programming. In so doing, it brings together material that forms a holistic view of not only her way of thinking but of a policy and programming agenda developed by a number of researchers, academics, and activists since the adoption of the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child.

Childhoods in South Asia Deepak Kumar Behera, 2007. This unique two-part volume focuses on extensive ethnographic examination of the lived experience of children in the political, cultural, and economic contexts of the countries in South Asia. Part I presents ethnographic studies of childhood experience.

A Companion to the Anthropology of Africa Roy Richard Grinker, Stephen C. Lubkemann, Christopher B. Steiner, Euclides Gonçalves, 2018-11-09. An essential collection of scholarly essays on the anthropology of Africa, offering a thorough introduction to the most important topics in this evolving and diverse field of study. The study of the cultures of Africa has been central to the methodological and theoretical development of anthropology as a discipline since the late 19th century. As the anthropology of Africa has emerged as a distinct field of study, anthropologists working in this tradition have strived to build a disciplinary conversation that recognizes the diversity and complexity of modern and ancient African cultures while acknowledging the effects of historical anthropology on the present and future of the field of study A Companion to the Anthropology of Africa is a collection of insightful essays covering the key questions and subjects in the contemporary anthropology of Africa with a key focus on addressing the topics that define the contemporary discipline Written and edited by a team of leading cultural anthropologists it is an ideal introduction to the most important topics in the field both those that have consistently been a part of the critical dialogue and those that have emerged as the central questions of the discipline's future Beginning with essays on the enduring topics in the study of African cultures A Companion to the Anthropology of Africa provides a foundation in the contemporary critical approach to subjects of longstanding interest With these subjects as a groundwork later essays address decolonization the postcolonial experience and questions of modern identity and definition providing representation of the diverse thinking and scholarship in the modern anthropology of Africa

The Psychological Effects of War and Violence on Children Lewis A. Leavitt, Nathan A. Fox, 2014-01-14 The outgrowth of a conference planned as a response to the need for researchers and clinicians to develop integrated plans for addressing the psychological trauma of children exposed to violence this volume's goals are to summarize research on the subject with particular emphasis on the Gulf War to use this information to formulate an outline of what current knowledge suggests are reasonable approaches to public mental health intervention and to develop an agenda for future research necessary for improving clinical efforts in varying international conflicts A significant collection of diverse perspectives attending to a diversity of cultural and political contexts the contributors offer many conclusions about important dimensions for analyzing the effects of violence on children Suggesting informed approaches to public mental health efforts which can be implemented the work presented here directs attention to the need for interdisciplinary collaboration among researchers and clinicians to better understand the effects of exposure to violence on the psychological well being of children and the optimal modes of remediation on individual family and community levels
