The Norn Language Of Orkney And Shetland:

The Norn Language of Orkney and Shetland Michael P. Barnes, 1998 For some 950 years a Scandinavian language was spoken in Orkney and Shetland It was introduced into the islands by Viking settlers and became the dominant form of speech there Norroena or Norn as it was later called remained the chief medium of oral and written communication in the Northern Isles throughout the Viking Age for much of the Middle Ages This book traces the history of Norn describes its principal features and provides a selection of Scandinavian language texts from the Northern Isles accompanied by English translation and commentary

The Nordic Languages Oskar Bandle, Lennart Elmevik, Gun Widmark, 2002 Annotation This handbook is conceived as a comprehensive history of the North Germanic languages from the oldest times up to the present day Whereas most of the traditional presentations of Nordic language history are confined to individual languages and often concentrate on purely linguistic data the present work covers the history of all Nordic languages in its totality embedded in a broad culture historical context The Nordic languages are described both individually and in their mutual dependence as well as in relation to the neighboring non Nordic languages The handbook is not tied to a particular methodology but keeps in principle to a pronounced methodological pluralism encompassing all aspects of actual methodology Moreover it combines diachronic with synchronic systematic aspects longitudinal sections with cross sections periods such as Old Norse transition from Old Norse to Early Modern Nordic Early Modern Nordic 1550 1800 and so on The description of Nordic language history is built upon a comprehensive collection of linguistic data it consists of more than 200 articles written by a multitude of authors from Scandinavian and German and English speaking countries The organization of the handbook combines a central part on the detailed chronological developments and some chapters of a more general character chapters on theory and methodology in the beginning and on overlapping spatio temporal topics in the end

Language in the British Isles Peter Trudgill, 1984-05-17

Language Contact and Development Around the North Sea Merja-Riitta Stenroos, Martti Mäkinen, Inge Særheim, 2012 This volume brings together eleven studies on the history of language and writing in the North Sea area with focus on contacts and interchanges through time Its range spans from the investigation of pre Germanic place names to present day Shetland the materials studied include glosses legal and trade documents as well as place names and modern dialects The volume is unique in its combination of linguistics and place name studies with literacy studies which allows for a very dynamic picture of the history of language contact and texts in the North Sea area Different approaches come together to illuminate a major insight the omnipresence of multilingualism as a context for language development and a formative characteristic of literacy Among the contributors are experts on English Nordic and German language history The book will be of interest to a wide range of scholars and students working on the history of Northern European languages literacy studies and language contact

Northern European Reformations James E. Kelly, Henning Laugerud, Salvador Ryan, 2020-09-22 This book examines the experiences and interconnections of the

Reformations principally in Denmark Norway and Britain and Ireland but with an eye to the broader Scandinavian landscape as well and also discusses instances of similarities between the Reformations in both realms The volume features a comprehensive introduction and provides a broad survey of the beginnings and progress of the Catholic and Protestant Reformations in Northern Europe while also highlighting themes of comparison that are common to all of the bloc under consideration which will be of interest to Reformation scholars across this geographical region The Cross Goes North Martin Carver, 2005 37 studies of the adoption of Christianity across northern Europe over 1000 years and the diverse reasons that drove the process In Europe the cross went north and east as the centuries unrolled from the Dingle Peninsula to Estonia and from the Alps to Lapland ranging in time from Roman Britain and Gaul in the third and fourth centuries to the conversion of peoples in the Baltic area a thousand years later These episodes of conversion form the basic narrative here History encourages the belief that the adoption of Christianity was somehow irresistible but specialists show the underside of the process by turning the spotlight from the missionaries who recorded their triumphs to the converted exploring their local situations and motives What were the reactions of the northern peoples to the Christian message Why would they wish to adopt it for the sake of its alliances In what way did they adapt the Christian ethos and infrastructure to suit their own community How did conversion affect the status of farmers of smiths of princes and of women Was society wholly changed or only in marginal matters of devotion and superstition These are the issues discussed here by thirty eight experts from across northern Europe some answers come from astute re readings of the texts alone but most are owed to a combination of history art history and archaeology working together MARTIN CARVER is Professor of Archaeology University of York Language contact in the British Isles Per Sture Ureland, George Broderick, 2011-05-09 Over the past few decades the book series Linguistische Arbeiten Linguistic Studies comprising over 500 volumes has made a significant contribution to the development of linguistic theory both in Germany and internationally The series will continue to deliver new impulses for research and maintain the central insight of linguistics that progress can only be made in acquiring new knowledge about human languages both synchronically and diachronically by closely combining empirical and theoretical analyses To this end we invite submission of high quality linguistic studies from all the central areas of general linguistics and the linguistics of individual languages which address topical questions discuss new data and advance the development of linguistic theory
