Sunbelt Frostbelt Public Policies And Market Forces In Metropolitan Development:

Sunbelt/Frostbelt Janet Rothenberg Pack, 2005-03-02 Metropolitan growth and development results from a complex mix of factors Consumer preferences growth and geographical shifts in population increasing incomes market restructuring quality of schools and location of affordable housing are just a few that play a critical role Other important influences include state and local interactions historical circumstances and the natural topography of a metropolitan area Federal and state policies taken together set the rules of the development game that tend to facilitate economic decentralization the concentration of poverty and greater fiscal and racial disparities between communities In Sunbelt Frostbelt Janet Rothenberg Pack and her contributors examine the role of market forces and government policies in shaping growth and development patterns in major metropolitan areas The findings are a result of a multiyear project analyzing five different locales two sunbelt metro areas Los Angeles and Phoenix and three in northern climes Pittsburgh Chicago and Philadelphia Through its intensive study of these areas the book offers a deep understanding of the federal policies and diverse market forces that have affected urban development patterns in the last few decades Despite the diversity of the cities the contributors find remarkable similarities in the problems they face Urban sprawl and spatial inequality are among the common challenges attributable to market forces and public policies Despite the many similarities the book finds important differences in the extent of the problems and recommends numerous policies for remedying them It concludes by examining how these different sunbelt and frostbelt metro areas have attempted to adopt policy reforms that address their unique growth challenges Contributors include a team of researchers from Arizona State University Peter Dreier Occidental College Robert E Gleeson Northern Illinois University Joseph Gyourko Univers Building Assets, Building Credit Nicolas P. Retsinas, Eric S. Belsky, 2006-05-25 Poor people spend their money living day to day How can they accumulate wealth In the United States homeownership is often the answer Homes not only provide shelter but also are assets and thus a means to create equity Mortgage credit becomes a crucial factor More Americans than ever now have some access to credit However thanks in large part to the growth of global capital markets and greater use of credit scores not all homeowners have benefited equally from the opened spigots Different terms and conditions mean that some applicants are overpaying for mortgage credit while some are getting in over their heads And the door is left wide open for predatory lenders In this important new volume accomplished analysts examine the situation illustrate its ramifications and recommend steps to improve it Today low income Americans have more access to credit than ever before The challenge is to increase the chances that homeownership becomes the new pathway to asset building that everyone hopes it will be Urban and Regional Policies for Metropolitan Livability Michael S Hamilton, Patricia Sue Atkins, 2014-12-18 In today's public policy arena the regional level is gaining increased attention as problems in policy and service delivery continue to spill over traditional urban government boundaries This authoritative work focuses on the growing role of regions in addressing and resolving local governance problems Urban and Regional Policies for Metropolitan Livability provides a concise up to date and systematic treatment of the problems and issues involved in urban and regional policy concerns Each policy chapter is written by a respected expert in the area and the book covers all the key policy issues that confront contemporary metropolitan areas including transportation the environment affordable housing crime employment poverty education and regional governance Each chapter outlines an issue which is followed by current thinking on problem diagnosis and problem solving as well as the prognosis for future policy success Urban and Regional Policies for Metropolitan Livability David K.
