The Sixteenth Century Euan Cameron, 2006-03-23 The sixteenth century witnessed some of the most abrupt and traumatic transformations ever seen in European society and culture Population growth strained the old fabric of community and economic relations New supplies of precious metals from east and west re wrote the rules of finance and commerce Politics was dominated first by the gladiatorial struggle of two great Renaissance monarchs then by the bitter and bloody entanglement of religion and politics Society became more disciplined but also more fragmented Yet this was also the age when the Renaissance became a European rather than just an Italian phenomenon an age of art architecture and literature of unprecedented reflection on the thinking person's role in government and civic life It was the era of the Reformation and Catholic reform when the ideals and priorities of the life of faith were examined and reshaped in the light of new readings of Scripture For the first time Europeans not only learned more about the world beyond their continent they reached out and grasped huge new overseas empires Six leading scholars in their respective fields have here contributed their insights into the challenging and tumultuous sixteenth century The economy politics society and secular and religious thought all receive careful thematic treatment and analysis A detailed picture also emerges of how Europeans made and managed their overseas empires The volume challenges tests and revises the received wisdom of past accounts in the light of the most modern scholarship The diverse experiences of regions of Europe often ignored including the East and the Mediterranean receive particular attention where their destinies were different from the more better known experiences of France and Germany Many clichés of textbook history from the multiple revolutions to the rise of the nation states emerge transformed from this account topographic sites multicultural cities border areas cross cultural corridors multiethnic regions that cut across national boundaries rendering them permeable to the flow of hybrid cultural messages By focusing on the literary cultures of specific geographical locations this volume intends to put into practice a new type of comparative study Traditional comparative literary studies establish transnational comparisons and contrasts but thereby reconfirm however inadvertently the very national borders they play down This volume inverts the expansive momentum of comparative studies towards ever broader regional European and world literary histories While the theater of this volume is still the literary culture of East Central Europe the contributors focus on pinpointed local traditions and geographic nodal points Their histories of Riga Plovdiv Timișoara or Budapest of Transylvania or the Danube corridor to take a few examples reveal how each of these sites was during the last two hundred years a home for a variety of foreign or ethnic literary traditions next to the one now dominant within the national borders By foregrounding such non national or hybrid traditions this volume pleads for a diversification and pluralization of local and national histories A genuine comparatist revival of literary history should involve the recognition that treading on native grounds means actually treading on grounds cultivated by diverse people Frege Dale

The Underground Wealth of Nations Jeannette Graulau, 2019-01-01 Silver mining was a capitalist business long before the supposed origin of modern capitalism Hundreds of years before a sixteenth century crisis in European agriculture led to the origins of capital investment and finance the silver mining industry exhibited many of the features of modern capitalism Silver mines were large scale businesses that demanded large investments and steady cash flow achieved by spreading that risk through fungible shares and creating legal structures to protect entrepreneurs from financial disaster Jeannette Graulau argues that mining preceded agriculture as the first true capitalist enterprise of the modern world

The Hansa Towns Helen Zimmern, 1889

War, Politics and Finance in Late Medieval English Towns Christian Drummond Liddy, 2005 The strengthening of ties between crown and locality in the fourteenth century is epitomised by the relationships between York and Bristol then amongst the largest and wealthiest urban communities in England and the crown This book combines a detailed study of the individuals who ruled Bristol and York at the time with a close analysis of the texts which illustrate the relationship between the two cities and the king thus offering a new perspective on relations between town and crown in late medieval England Beginning with an analysis of the various demands financial political and commercial made upon the towns by the Hundred Years War the author argues that such pressures facilitated the development of a partnership in government between the crown and the two towns meaning that the elite inhabitants became increasingly important in national affairs The book goes on to explore in detail the nature of urban aspirations within the kingdom arguing that the royal charters granting the towns their coveted county status were crucial in binding their ruling elites into the apparatus of royal government and giving them a powerful voice in national politics
