The Prodigal Son in English and American Literature Alison M. Jack, 2019 This groundbreaking study focuses on the reconfiguring of the character of the Prodigal Son and his family as they appear in drama novels and poetry in English from the fifteenth to the twenty first centuries

The Ruins of Experience Matthew Wickman, 2013-04-23 There emerged during the latter half of the eighteenth century a reflexive relationship between shifting codes of legal evidence in British courtrooms and the growing fascination throughout Europe with the primitive Scottish Highlands New methods for determining evidential truth linked with the growing prominence of lawyers and a formalized division of labor between witnesses and jurors combined to devalue the authority of witness testimony magnifying the rupture between experience and knowledge Juries now pronounced verdicts based not upon the certainty of direct experience but rather upon abstractions of probability or reasonable likelihood Yet even as these changes were occurring the Scottish Highlands and Hebridean Islands were attracting increased attention as a region where witness experience in sublime and communal forms had managed to trump enlightened progress and the probabilistic abstract and mediated mentality on which the Enlightenment was predicated There in a remote corner of Britain natives and tourists beheld things that surpassed enlightened understanding experience was becoming all the more alluring to the extent that it signified something other than knowledge Matthew Wickman examines this uncanny return of experiential authority at the very moment of its supposed decline and traces the alluring improbability of experience into our own time Thematic in its focus and cross disciplinary in its approach The Ruins of Experience situates the literary next to the nonliterary the old beside the new Wickman looks to poems novels philosophical texts travel narratives contemporary theory and evidential treatises and trial narratives to suggest an alternative historical view of the paradoxical tensions of the Enlightenment and Romantic eras

Empire Islands Rebecca Weaver-Hightower, 2007 Through a detailed unpacking of the castaway genre's appeal in English literature Empire Islands forwards our understanding of the sociopsychology of British Empire Rebecca Weaver Hightower argues convincingly that by helping generations of readers to make sense of and perhaps feel better about imperial aggression the castaway story in effect enabled the expansion and maintenance of European empire Empire Islands asks why so many colonial authors chose islands as the setting for their stories of imperial adventure and why so many postcolonial writers write back to those island castaway narratives Drawing on insightful readings of works from Thomas More's Utopia to Caribbean novels like George Lamming's Water with Berries from canonical works such as Robinson Crusoe and The Tempest to the lesser known A Narrative of the Life and Astonishing Adventures of John Daniel by Ralph Morris Weaver Hightower examines themes of cannibalism piracy monstrosity imperial aggression and the concept of going native Ending with analysis of contemporary film and the role of the United States in global neoimperialism Weaver Hightower exposes how island narratives continue not only to describe but to justify colonialism Rebecca Weaver Hightower is assistant professor of English and postcolonial
