Art, Imagination and Christian Hope Gavin Hopps, 2016-12-05 In hope Christian faith reconfigures the shape of what is familiar in order to pattern the contours of God's promised future In this process the present is continuously re-shaped by ventures of hopeful and expectant living In art this same poetic interplay between past present and future takes specific concrete forms furnishing vital resources for sustaining an imaginative ecology of hope This volume attends to the contributions that architecture drama literature music and painting can make as artists trace patterns of promise resisting the finality of modernity's despairing visions and generating hopeful living in a present which although marked by sin and death is grasped imaginatively as already pregnant with future Our Distance from God James D.

Herbert, 2008-03-18 In this encounter between reflections on Christian theology and the history of art and music James D. Herbert considers how specific works of art establish a relation between the divine and the earthbound audiences for whom the art was created He looks at five case studies over four centuries the architecture and artworks that glorified Louis XIV at Versailles the interaction of libretto and music in Richard Wagner's Ring of the Nibelung Claude Monet's enormous paintings of water lilies mounted at the Orangerie of Paris in 1927 the inaugural performance in 1962 of Benjamin Britten's War Requiem at the new Anglican cathedral in Coventry and Robert Wilson's recent installation based on the Passion 14 Stations
