

Strategies to Support Gifted and Talented Students

What are Gifted Students?

A gifted student is a student who is above average in one or more of the following areas: intellectual, creative, social and physical. Talented students are those whose skills are above average in one or more areas. Talent emerges from giftedness. (This definition comes from the Australian Curriculum and derives from (English model)

Gifted and talented students are all unique. There is no one size fits all approach to teaching gifted and talented students. Each student will vary in their abilities, interests, personality and background.

Gifted and talented students require and are entitled to adjustments and differentiation in their learning.

Provide Differentiation to Learning Content

- Use topics of interest to the students, then provide challenging reading materials.
- Create study contracts.
- Create research tasks that are open ended or prompt a question that provides opportunities for open ended thinking.
- Encourage creativity and risk-taking.
- Allow for a variety of completion projects, e.g. do not limit the student to a set of products/tasks.

Creating Learning Spaces

- Encourage a classroom that has flexible learning spaces.
- Create specialised learning centres that allow for group, pair or individual tasks.
- Create an interest centre. Allocate time throughout the school day for the student to create materials to display in the learning centre.

Enrichment Opportunities

- Provide opportunities for the student to work with other students like them or who have similar interests, e.g. allow the student to work across grade levels.
- Provide a classroom environment where humour and creativity are encouraged.
- Encourage and seek out mentorship from adults who have specialist knowledge in the topics of interest to the student, e.g. if the student is interested in computer science, set up a chat or messenger group with a mentor in that field.
- Create enrichment clusters, e.g. a group of students with a similar interest or ability in visual art are brought together each week at a set time to work with a specialist art teacher/artist.
