Sonar Bangla? Ben Rogaly, Barbara Harriss-White, Sugata Bose, 1999 Trade, Labour and Transformation of Community in Asia M. Gillan, B. Pokrant, 2009-11-27 This book considers the transformative impact of global trade and production networks on local economies work and labour organization and various forms and meanings of community It examines the socio economic transformation in Asia and the restructuring of manufacturing industries ports and the information technology sector Does increased access to groundwater irrigation through electricity reforms affect agricultural and groundwater outcomes? Mukherji, Aditi, Buisson, Marie-Charlotte, Mitra, Archisman, Banerjee, P. S., Chowdhury, S. D., Women, Labour and the Economy in India Deepita Chakravarty, Ishita Chakravarty, 2015-10-30 The last available census estimated around 10 per cent of total urban working women in India are concentrated in the low paid domestic services such as cleaning cooking and taking care of the children and the elderly This is found to be much higher in certain parts of India emerging as the single most important avenue for urban females surpassing males in the service since the 1980s By applying an imaginative and refreshing mix of disciplinary approaches ranging from economic models of the household empirical analysis and literary conventions this book analyses the changing labour economy in post partition West Bengal It explains how and why women and girl children have replaced this traditionally male bias in the gender segregated domestic service industry since the late 1940s and addresses the question of whether this increase in vulnerable individuals working in domestic service the growth of the urban professional middle class in the post liberalization period and the increasing incidences of reported abuses of domestics in urban middleclass homes in the recent years are related Covering five decades of the history of gender and labour in India this book will be of interest to scholars working in the fields of gender and labour relations development studies economics history and women and gender studies Rural India Facing the 21st Century Barbara Harriss-White, 2004-07 A profound analysis of a broad range of issues providing a masterly overview of rural development in India Rethinking Indian Political Institutions Crispin Bates, Subho Basu, 2005 This book explores various aspects and processes of the twentieth century Indian state from the central Union government down to grassroot level in the provinces and villages Groundwater Governance in the Indo-Gangetic and Yellow River Basins Aditi Mukherji, Karen G. Villholth, Bharat R. Sharma, Jinxia Wang, 2009-06-08 One of the key features of agricultural development in the last five decades has been intensive groundwater use in the Indo Gangetic Basin Pakistan India Nepal and Bangladesh and in the Yellow River Basin China Groundwater irrigates almost 60% of the net irrigated area in South Asia and 70% in the north China plains Groundwater use for agri BRAC, Global Policy Language, and Women in Bangladesh Manzurul Mannan, 2015-08-31 A critical examination of the impact of BRAC the world s largest NGO on the status of women in Southern Bangladeshi cultural life Founded in 1972 and now the largest NGO in the world BRAC has been lauded for its efforts aimed at lifting the poor especially women out of poverty In BRAC Global Policy Language and Women in Bangladesh Manzurul Mannan while not denying the many positive accomplishments of BRAC places the organization under a critical microscope Drawing on his experience as a Bangladeshi native and BRAC insider Mannan provides unique insights into not only BRAC's phenomenal growth and its role in diffusing western and development ideologies but also more importantly how target populations have been affected culturally and socially He explains how BRAC has employed western ideas theories and philosophies of agency when engaging in development interventions in even the remotest villages seeking to transform social structures women's status and the local polity The resulting intermingling of exogenous perspectives with local knowledge leads to a degree of inconsistency and dissonance within BRAC's own operations while generating opposition from local commoners and elites Cautionary yet hopeful the book advocates greater cultural sensitivity as a way to mitigate conflict between BRAC and the constituencies it serves

The Modern Anthropology of India Peter Berger, Frank Heidemann, 2013-06-03 The Modern Anthropology of India is an accessible textbook providing a critical overview of the ethnographic work done in India since 1947 It assesses the history of research in each region and serves as a practical and comprehensive guide to the main themes dealt with by ethnographers It highlights key analytical concepts and paradigms that came to be of relevance in particular regions in the recent history of research in India and which possibly gained a pan Indian or even trans Indian significance Structured according to the states of the Indian union contributors raise several key questions including What themes were ethnographers interested in What are the significant ethnographic contributions How are peoples communities and cultural areas represented How has the ethnographic research in the area developed Filling a significant gap in the literature the book is an invaluable resource to students and researchers in the field of Indian anthropology ethnography regional anthropology and postcolonial studies It is also of interest to students of South Asian studies in general as it provides an extensive and critical overview of regionally based ethnographic activity undertaken in India

Globalisation and Migration Ronaldo Munck, 2013-09-13 This book critically examines the new issues and new politics regarding migration in the era of globalisation from a majority world perspective It examines the current shifts in the global political economy and the effects it has for example in relation to rural displacement When and how does this lead to national and or transnational migration We need to examine the ways in which migration is cut across and impacts on the generation of racism and xenophobia in the west The issue of remittances by migrants to the developing nations needs careful study as does the controversial issue of brain drain versus brain gain through migration The growing importance of trafficking for forced labour has now been taken up by various international bodies but is it the new normality or simply an unfortunate side effect of globalisation to be overcome through legislation Migration is becoming increasingly gendered in its composition and flows but also in the receiving countries where men and women do very different jobs We can predict the increasing racialization and gendering of migration but how will the state and society respond to these shifts This book was published as a special issue of Third World Quarterly

A History of Bangladesh Willem van

Schendel,2009-02-12 Bangladesh is a new name for an old land whose history is little known to the wider world A country chiefly famous in the West for media images of poverty underdevelopment and natural disasters Bangladesh did not exist as an independent state until 1971 Willem van Schendel s history reveals the country s vibrant colourful past and its diverse culture as it navigates the extraordinary twists and turns that have created modern Bangladesh The story begins with the early geological history of the delta which has decisively shaped Bangladesh society The narrative then moves chronologically through the era of colonial rule the partition of Bengal the war with Pakistan and the birth of Bangladesh as an independent state In so doing it reveals the forces that have made Bangladesh what it is today This is an eloquent introduction to a fascinating country and its resilient and inventive people Poetics of Village Politics Arild Engelsen

Ruud,2022-05-29 Originally published in 2003 this volume studies village politics and the changes brought about in rural society through political developments It focuses on the social political and cultural circumstances of communist mobilization in rural West Bengal It analyses the emergence of rural communism in the local context of changes in the position of women in caste practices in economic conditions and in new efforts to create development It investigates how this cultural change interacts with the mechanisms and tools of village politics and using anthropological methods and oral history as tools allows for a detailed and intimate ethnographic description of village politics and its changes Poverty and Water David

Hemson,Kassim Kulindwa,Haakon Lein,Adolfo Mascarenhas,2013-07-18 Rarely has such a contentious and complex issue emerged in twenty first century development as that of water In this book co editors David Hemson Kassim Kulindwa Haakon Lein and Adolfo Mascarenhas use a global spread of case studies to illustrate that water is not simply an issue of physical scarcity but rather a complex and politically driven issue with profound future implications both in the developing world and outside it The book argues that for the international community to achieve the Millennium Development Goals governments must step in to protect the rights of the poor Here the links between poverty and access to clean water are explored with an eye to political reform that can end the exploitative policies of big business and help to shape a more equitable world for all

Industrial Labour in an Unequal World Christian Strümpell,Michael Hoffmann,2023-10-04 The volume scrutinizes the fundamentally uneven character of industrial production and working class formation by bringing together anthropologists specializing on industrial labour in various locations from South America Western and Eastern Europe North Africa and South Asia Through their engagement with Leon Trotsky s concept of uneven and combined development the authors unravel the complex relations that connect and disconnect labour in their sites of research with workers in other places and other times As the contributions likewise reveal the unevenness and combination inherent in industrial developments shape and are at the same time also shaped by the different politics workers in an unequal world pursue as well as the historical experiences and future expectations of workers that inform these With the attention the authors pay to the specificities of ethnographic detail as well as to broader regional and global developments the volume demonstrates the value of long term ethnographic research and is of interest to a wide audience ranging from specialists in the fields of anthropology history sociology and development studies to students and activists

Bangladesh's Economic and Social Progress Munim Kumar Barai, 2020-03-31 This book evaluates Bangladesh's impressive economic and social progress more often referred to as a development surprise. In doing so, the book examines the gap in existing explanations of Bangladesh's development and then offers an empirically informed analysis of a range of distinctive factors, policies and actions that have individually and collectively contributed to the progress of Bangladesh. In an inclusive way, the book covers the developmental role, relation and impact of poverty reduction, access to finance, progress in education and social empowerment, reduction in the climatic vulnerability and evolving sectoral growth activities in the agriculture, garments and light industries. It also takes into account the important role of the government and NGOs in the development process, identifies bottlenecks and challenges to Bangladesh's future development path and suggests measures to overcome them. By providing an inclusive narrative to theorize Bangladesh's development, which is still missing in the public discourse, this book posits that Bangladesh per se can offer a development model to other developing countries.

People's Car Sarasij Majumder, 2018-11-20 India is witnessing a unique moment in populism with sentiments divided between economic reforms that promise fast industrialization and protests that thwart such industrialization. This book offers an ethnographic study of divergent local responses to the proposed construction of a Tata Motors factory in eastern India that would have produced the Nano, the so-called people's car. Initial excitement was followed by long protests among the villagers whose agricultural land was being acquired for the project. After these protests secured the relocation of the factory, further demonstrations followed, sometimes involving the same participants seeking to bring the factory back. People's Car explores this ambivalence concerning industrialization, asking why long-drawn resistances against corporate industrialization coexist with political rhetoric and slogans promoting fast-paced industrialization. Majumder argues that such contradictory rhetoric and promises target divided sentiments in rural India where land is incommensurable with money and a site specially marked by desire for middle-caste small landowners aspiring to futures beyond agriculture. Previous studies of industrialization have generally focused on either demands for development or populist critiques. Moving beyond romantic clichés about urban-rural divisions, People's Car offers a single analytical and ethnographic framework demonstrating how pro and anti-industrialization forces feed off each other.

Development, Decentralization and Democracy Robert Thörnlind, 2000 This book explores the controversy in political science surrounding the civil society social capital paradigm by studying the performance of decentralized governments in West Bengal and Bangladesh. Gram panchayats and NGOs provide the focus of the study. The study intends to determine whether a growth in social capital can explain why decentralized governments seem to be more effective in West Bengal though both areas decentralized their governments around the same time. The two regions have shared for centuries a common history, civic culture, ethnic identity and language though religion led to the separation of the regions.

Neoliberalism and the Transforming Left in India Ritanjan Das, 2017-10-30 West Bengal has often been perceived as somewhat of an aberration in the wider context of a rather chaotic Indian democracy as the Left Front spearheaded by the Communist Party of India Marxist CPIM demonstrated a rare instance of political stability decisively winning seven consecutive democratic elections from 1977 to 2006 Its development record has also been substantial with a focus on land reforms the panchayati raj institution and an agriculture centric development agenda This book presents a reappraisal of the political economic history of the CPIM Left Front regime against the backdrop of the Indian reform experience It examines two distinct areas the conditions that necessitated the regime to engineer a transition from an erstwhile agricultural based growth model to a more pro market economic agenda post 1991 and the political strategy employed to manage such a transition attract private capital and at the same time sustain the regime s traditional rhetoric and partisan character In order to develop a more textured understanding of the recent political developments in West Bengal the author applies a historically nuanced and inductive political economic analysis which draws on published materials and primary material such as government documents and interviews with bureaucrats political activists members of the intelligentsia and ministers A valuable contribution to the ongoing debate in the literature on the drifts underway with the Indian Left and India s economic transformation post 1990s this book will be of interest to academics in the field of Political Science Government Political Economy and South Asian Studies
