the church In this study David Rankin sets the writings of Tertullian in the context of the early third century church and the developments it was undergoing in relation to both its structures and its self understanding He then discusses Tertullian's own theology of the church his imagery and his perception of church office and ministry Tertullian maintained throughout his career a high view of the church and this in part constituted the motivation for his vitriolic attacks on the church's hierarchy after he had joined the New Prophecy movement His contribution to the development of the church has often been misunderstood and this thorough exploration provides a timely reassessment of its nature and importance

Israel, the Church, and Millenarianism Steven D. Aguzzi, 2017-07-28 Since the calls of the Second Vatican Council Roman Catholic theologians have sought to overcome an overarching problem facing Jewish Christian relations the concept of supersessionism the idea that God has revoked the spiritual and historical promises made to the Jewish people in favour of granting those same privileges to a predominantly Gentile Church Israel the Church and Millenarianism breaks new ground by applying an ancient principle to the problem of Israel's replacement the early Church's promotion of millennialism Utilizing the best in Patristic research Aguzzi argues that these earliest Christian traditions made room for the future of Israel because Christ's reign in the Church was viewed as provisional to his historical reign on earth Israel's role in salvation history was and is not yet complete Aguzzi's research also opens the door for a greater Catholic understanding of the millennial principle not shying away from its validity and relevance for understanding the importance of safeguarding Jewish particularity while concluding that the Synagogue and the Church are indeed on a parallel trajectory what will their Israel's acceptance be but life from the dead Romans 11:15 Ultimately the divine will is fulfilled through both Christian and Jewish means in history while each community is dependent in different ways upon the unfolding of God's future and the coming Parousia of Christ

City of Gods: The New Jerusalem of John's Revelation in Early Christianity Nathan Betz, 2025-02-03 This is the story of the great and final city of John's Revelation Plumbing the first three centuries of Christian literature this careful narrative highlights the early significance of one of the most influential evocative and controversial images in Christian scripture Chronicling how dozens of early writers from Justin and Irenaeus to Origen and Methodius and from the Montanists to Tertullian Victorinus and Lactantius imagined and applied the coming New Jerusalem the study demonstrates how the city regardless of its myriad and often competing interpretations always pointed to the highest possible union of God and humanity both here and now and in the age to come

Mark Images of an Apostolic Interpreter C. Clifton Black, In this study of early Christian traditions C Clifton Black explores the figure and function of Mark the apostolic associate to whom Christians traditionally have attributed authorship of the New Testament's anonymous Second Gospel and whose very existence has been a controversial issue among scholars Black contends that in their justifiable doubt about Mark's writing of the Second Gospel biblical scholars have neglected the development of that ascription as well as its religious motivations Using a variety of critical lenses historical literary and theological Black examines the images of Mark that emerge from the New Testament and from the writings of the early church fathers Black's comprehensive investigation culminates in a fresh appraisal of the relationship between the Gospel of Mark and the legends surrounding its composition Black concludes that the figure of Mark was carefully crafted as a part of the interpretive framework within which early Christians read the Second Gospel and heard its witness as faithful to their understanding of Jesus Like the Markan Gospel itself the image of Mark the Evangelist helped the early church in the formation of its religious memory and theological identity Mark C. Clifton Black, 2001-09-13 Explores the figure and function of Mark the apostolic associate to whom Christians have traditionally attributed authorship of the second gospel Using a variety of critical lenses historical literary and theological Black examines the images of Mark the Evangelical which emerge from the New Testament and from the writings of the early church fathers He shows how these images helped the early church in the formation of its religious memory and theological identity The Oxford Dictionary of the Christian Church Frank Leslie Cross, Elizabeth A. Livingstone, 2005 Uniquely authoritative and wide ranging in its scope The Oxford Dictionary of the Christian Church is the indispensable one volume reference work on all aspects of the Christian Church It contains over 6 000 cross referenced A Z entries and offers unrivalled coverage of all aspects of this vast and often complex subject including theology churches and denominations patristic scholarship the bible the church calendar and its organization popes archbishops saints and mystics In this revision innumerable small changes have been made to take into account shifts in scholarly opinion recent developments such as the Church of England's new prayer book Common Worship RC canonizations ecumenical advances and mergers and where possible statistics A number of existing articles have been rewritten to reflect new evidence or understanding for example the Holy Sepulchre entry and there are a few new articles Perhaps most significantly a great number of the bibliographies have been updated Established since its first appearance in 1957 as an essential resource for ordinands clergy and members of religious orders ODCC is an invaluable tool for academics teachers and students of church history and theology as well as for the general reader Novatian's Theology of the Father and Son Daniel Lloyd, 2020-07-23 Early Christian theologian Novatian's c 200-258 work begins with the topic of the unique and supreme Father The categories he uses to describe the Father include both traditions from Christian sources and articulations of negative theology especially as seen in Middle Platonism After establishing the limitations set by philosophical and theological language Daniel Lloyd turns to the positive categories Novatian chooses for describing the Father highlighting Novatian's emphasis on revelation evaluating the parameters of the uniqueness of the Father and showing that his theology presents the Father as distinct in attributes such as incomprehensibility eternality and inability to change Having presented Novatian's theology of the Father as the center point of his thought Lloyd next assesses Novatian's theology of the Son showing that his categories and terminology even to the point of calling the Son God do not function against his theology of the unique Father Novatian has many resources for speaking about the Son's divinity in a way that does not contradict his theology of the Father Lloyd presents and analyzes these resources to demonstrate that the Son's status as ontologically subordinate to the Father is the best reading of De Trinitate

The Power of Resurrection Patrick G. Stefan, 2019-12-16 How did the early Christian movement grow so quickly and did the idea of resurrection have anything to do with its growth Patrick G. Stefan offers an answer to both of these questions by searching at the intersection of the investigation of Christian origins and Continental philosophy He documents the rise of the disciplined subject with the emergence of Christianity and argues that the early success of the Christian movement was due in part to the activation and deployment of what Michel Foucault calls disciplinary mechanisms of power This activation took place through the instantiation of the idea of resurrection in early Christian material and textual existence The activation of these mechanisms created a sub class of disciplined individuals with the ability to envision life outside of the sovereign power of Caesar By building on Foucault's methodology of examining how material conditions shape and create individual subjects this book takes as its point of departure Foucault's unexplored observation that Christianity proposed and spread new power relations throughout the ancient world From this departure point Stefan seeks to demonstrate that these new power relations were connected to an idea resurrection and formed the early history of disciplinary power
