Arctic Circles and Imperial Knowledge Annaliese Jacobs Claydon, 2023-12-28 In 1845 an expedition led by Sir John Franklin vanished in the Canadian Arctic The enduring obsession with the Franklin mystery and in particular Inuit information about its fate is partly due to the ways in which information was circulated in these imperial spaces This book examines how the Franklins and other explorer families engaged in science exploration and the exchange of information in the early to mid 19th century It follows the Franklins from the Arctic to Van Diemen's Land charting how they worked with intermediaries imperial humanitarians and scientists and shows how they used these experiences to claim a moral right to information Arctic Circles and Imperial Knowledge shows how the indigenous peoples translators fur traders whalers convicts and sailors who explorer families relied upon for information were both indispensable and inconvenient to the Franklins It reveals a deep entanglement of polar expedition with British imperialism and shows how geographical knowledge intertwined with convict policy humanitarianism genocide and authority In these imperial spaces families such as the Franklins negotiated their tenuous authority over knowledge to engage with the politics of truth and question the credibility and trustworthiness of those they sought to silence

An Unnatural History of Religions Leonardo Ambasciano, 2018-12-27 An Unnatural History of Religions examines the origins development and critical issues concerning the history of religion and its relationship with science The book explores the ideological biases logical fallacies and unwarranted beliefs that surround the scientific foundations or lack thereof in the academic discipline of the history of religions positioning them in today's post truth culture Leonardo Ambasciano provides the necessary critical background to evaluate the most important theories and working concepts dedicated to the explanation of the historical developments of religion He covers the most important topics and paradigm shifts in the field such as phenomenology postmodernism and cognitive science These are taken into consideration chronologically each time with case studies on topics such as shamanism gender biases ethnocentrism and biological evolution Ambasciano argues that the roots of post truth may be deep in human biases but that historical justifications change each time resulting in different combinations The surprising rise of once fringe beliefs such as conspiracy theories pseudoscientific claims and so called scientific creationism demonstrates the alarming influence that post truth ideas may exert on both politics and society Recognising them before they spread anew may be the first step towards a scientifically renewed study of religion
