Shapiro, 2005 Until recently archaeologists have rarely studied prehistoric architecture as if it were an artifact comparable to pottery or stone tools Following the premise that built space embodies social organization Jason Shapiro takes a fresh look at architectural data from Arroyo Hondo Pueblo a fourteenth century site in the northern Rio Grande Valley of present day New Mexico Using the theoretical assumptions and mathematical techniques of space syntax analysis he explores what changes in architecture reveal about people s social lives A significant shift toward greater residential privacy during the later period occurred in Arroyo Hondo as well as the contemporaneous pueblos of Tijeras and Puy and twentieth century Acoma Pueblo This analysis demonstrates that transformations in the arrangement of space can illuminate social change even when they are not accompanied by changes in other kinds of artifacts or technologies

Ancient Architecture of the Southwest William N. Morgan,1994-01-01 During more than a thousand years before Europeans arrived in 1540 the native peoples of what is now the southwestern United States and northern Mexico developed an architecture of rich diversity and beauty Vestiges of thousands of these dwellings and villages still remain in locations ranging from Colorado in the north to Chihuahua in the south and from Nevada in the west to eastern New Mexico This study presents the most comprehensive architectural survey of the region currently available Organized in five chronological sections that include 132 professionally rendered site drawings the book examines architectural evolution from humble pit houses to sophisticated multistory pueblos The sections explore concurrent Mogollon Hohokam and Anasazi developments as well as those in the Salado Sinagua Virgin River Kayenta and other areas and compare their architecture to contemporary developments in parts of eastern North America and Mesoamerica The book concludes with a discussion of changes in Native American architecture in response to European influences An Introduction to the Study of Southwestern

The Archaeology of Food and Warfare Amber M. VanDerwarker, Gregory D. Wilson,2015-08-03 The archaeologies of food and warfare have independently developed over the past several decades This volume aims to provide concrete linkages between these research topics through the examination of case studies worldwide Topics considered within the book include the impacts of warfare on the daily food quest warfare and nutritional health ritual foodways and violence the provisioning of warriors and armies status based changes in diet during times of war logistical constraints on military campaigns and violent competition over subsistence resources The diversity of perspectives included in this volume may be a product of new ways of conceptualizing violence not simply as an isolated component of a society nor as an attribute of a particular societal type but instead as a transformative process that is lived and irrevocably alters social economic and political organization and relationships This book highlights this transformative process by presenting a cross cultural perspective on the connection between war and food through the inclusion of case studies from several continents Conflict Archaeology, Historical

Memory, and the Experience of War Mark Axel Tveskov,Ashley Ann Bissonnette,2023-01-10 This volume presents approaches to the archaeology of war that move beyond the forensic analysis of battlefields fortifications and other sites of conflict to consider the historical memory commemoration and social experience of war The Social Construction of

Communities Mark D. Varien,James M. Situational Identities along the Raiding Frontier of Colonial New Mexico examines pluralistic communities that navigated between colonial and indigenous practices to negotiate strategic alliances with both sides of generations old conflicts The rich history of the southwestern community of Casitas Viejas straddles multiple cultures and identities and is representative of multiple settlements in the region of northern New Mexico that served as a buffer protecting the larger towns of New Spain from Apache Navajo Ute and Comanche raiders These gen zaro settlements of Indo Hispano settlers used shrewd cross cultural skills to survive Researching the dynamics of these communities has long been difficult due in large part to the lack of material records In this innovative case study Jun U Sunseri examines persistent cultural practices among families who lived at Casitas Viejas and explores the complex identities of the region s communities Applying theoretical and methodological approaches Sunseri adds oral histories performative traditions of contemporary inhabitants culinary practices and local culture to traditional archaeology to shed light on the historical identities of these communities that bridged two worlds

Exploring Cause and Explanation Cynthia L. Herhahn, Ann F. Ramenofsky, 2016-04-01 This 13th biennial volume of the Southwest Symposium highlights three distinct archaeological themes historical ecology demography and movement tied together through the consideration of the knowledge tools of cause and explanation These tools focus discussion on how and why questions facilitate assessing past and current knowledge of the Pueblo Southwest and provide unexpected bridges across the three themes For instance people are ultimately the source of the movement of artifacts but that statement is inadequate for explaining how artifact movement occurred or even why at a regional scale different kinds of movement are implicated at different times Answering such questions can easily incorporate questions about changes in climate or in population density or size Each thematic section is introduced by an established author who sets the framework for the chapters that follow Some contributors adopt regional perspectives in which both classical regions the central San Juan or lower Chama basins and peripheral zones the Alamosa basin or the upper San Juan are represented Chapters are also broad temporally ranging from the Younger Dryas Climatic interval the Clovis Folsom transition to the Protohistoric Pueblo world and the eighteenth century ethnogenesis of a unique Hispanic identity in northern New Mexico Others consider methodological issues including the burden of chronic health afflictions at the level of the community and advances in estimating absolute population size Whether emphasizing time space or methodology the authors address the processes steps and interactions that affect current understanding of change or stability of cultural traditions Exploring Cause and Explanation considers themes of perennial interest but demonstrates that archaeological knowledge in the Southwest continues to expand in directions that could not have been predicted fifty years ago Contributors Kirk C Anderson Jesse A M Ballenger Jeffery Clark J Andrew Darling B Sunday Eiselt Mark D Elson Mostafa Fayek Jeffrey R Ferguson Severin Fowles Cynthia Herhahn Vance T Holliday Sharon Hull Deborah L Huntley Emily Lena Jones Kathryn Kamp Jeremy Kulisheck Karl W Laumbach Toni S Laumbach Stephen H Lekson Virginia T McLemore Frances Joan Mathien Michael H Ort Scott G Ortman Mary Ownby Mary M Prasciunas Ann F Ramenofsky Erik Simpson Ann L W Stodder Ronald H Towner

Contesting the

Borderlands Deborah Lawrence, Jon Lawrence, 2016-04-28 Conflict and cooperation have shaped the American Southwest since prehistoric times For centuries indigenous groups and later Spaniards French and Anglo Americans met fought and collaborated with one another in this border area stretching from Texas through southern California To explore the region s complex past from prehistory to the U S takeover this book uses an unusual multidisciplinary approach In interviews with ten experts Deborah and Jon Lawrence discuss subjects ranging from warfare among the earliest ancestral Puebloans to intermarriage and peonage among Spanish settlers and the Indians they encountered The scholars interviewed form a distinguished array of archaeologists anthropologists ethnohistorians and historians Juliana Barr Brian DeLay Richard and Shirley Flint John Kessel Steven LeBlanc Mark Santiago Polly Schaafsma David J Weber and Michael Wilcox All speak forthrightly about complex and controversial issues and they do so with minimal academic jargon and temporizing bringing the most reliable information to bear on every subject they discuss Themes the authors address include the origin and scope of conflicts between ethnic groups and the extent of accommodation cooperation and cross cultural adaptation that also ensued Seven interviews explore how Indians forced colonizers to modify their behavior All of the experts explain how they deal with incomplete or biased sources to achieve balanced interpretations As the authors point out no single discipline provides a complete accurate historical picture Spanish documents must be sifted for political and ideological distortion the archaeological record is incomplete and oral traditions erode and become corrupted over time By assembling the most articulate practitioners of all three approaches the authors have produced a book that will speak to general readers as well as scholars and students in a variety of fields
