ordinary working and lower middle class women most of them transplants from villages and small towns to a densely populated city neighborhood In their early years many experienced family disruption emotional deprivation and economic hardship but steadily increasing educational opportunities improved health care and easily available contraception have significantly altered how the younger women relate to their families and the larger society Today's Mexican schoolgirl LeVine shows is encouraged to apply herself to her studies for her own benefit and the longer she remains in school the greater the self confidence she will carry with her into the world of work and later into marriage and motherhood Hard economic times have forced many married women into the workplace where their sense of personal efficacy is enhanced at the same time in the domestic sphere their earnings allow them greater negotiating power with husbands and male relatives Changes are not confined to the younger generation Older women are enjoying better health and living longer but with adult children either less able or willing to accept responsibility for aged parents than they were in the past anxiety runs high and family relations are often strained Dolor y Alegría takes a close look at the efforts of three generations of Mexican women to redefine themselves in both family and workplace it shows that today's young woman has very different expectations of herself and others from those that her grandmother or even her mother had
