Towards Rethinking Politics, Policy and Polity in the Anthropocene Hans Günter Brauch, 2025-02-24 Humankind faces two anthropogenic threats to its survival that are closely linked. The first is the end of the Holocene and the start of the Anthropocene which was marked by the test of a nuclear bomb on 16 July 1945. In the prevailing peace and security narrative nuclear weapons and the other country bloc or alliance pose a perceived threat to humankind's survival. In the Anthropocene narrative we are the threat through our way of life and the burning of fossil fuels. The start of the Anthropocene coincides with a change in the international order with the setting up of the UN and the Bretton Woods Institutions. Three stages of this order are distinguished: the Cold War bipolarity, the post-Cold War era unipolarity, and the end of the rule-based global liberal order multipolarity on 24 February 2022. In this book ten multidisciplinary perspectives discuss complexity, Anthropocene geopolitics, peace and security discourses, and the debate on the Anthropocene planetary boundaries, complex crises, and integrative geography in the Anthropocene governance and politics, and the Patriocene and gender. Both existential threats for humankind are illustrated by cover photos of the first nuclear weapons test on 16 July 1945 and by Category 5 Hurricane Otis, an extreme weather event impacting on Acapulco in Mexico on 25 October 2023. The Anthropocene as a new epoch of Earth history coincides in 1945 with a change in the international order. In the security and peace narrative the other and nuclear weapons pose an existential threat in the Anthropocene narrative. This dual existential change requires a rethinking of politics, policy, and polity. In the social sciences the Anthropocene is being discussed from multidisciplinary perspectives: geography, political science, and peace, security, and gender studies. This is an open access publication.

The Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science, 1890 Negotiating START Kerry M. Kartchner, The United States and the Soviet Union have been negotiating nuclear arms control agreements for over twenty years yet radical differences remain in the two sides' concept of and approaches to strategic stability and arms control. This book compares and contrasts those approaches using START Strategic Arms Reduction Treaty as a case study. Throughout two decades of negotiation, U.S. policy has been directed toward dialogue that would encourage convergence of American and Soviet thought on nuclear deterrence. In Kartchner's view, hope is belied not only by continuing asymmetries in the development and deployment of their strategic nuclear arsenals but by differing U.S. and Soviet negotiating positions. The Reagan administration viewed START as a means of repudiating SALT II, restoring a measure of balance in the U.S.-Soviet strategic competition and as a way of closing the so-called window of vulnerability. In contrast, Kartchner analyzes the Soviets' differing views of nuclear balance, emphasizing their satisfaction with SALT II and a strategic equilibrium shaped by a decade of bilateral arms control. Kartchner offers a detailed exposition of the major negotiating issues in START contrasting concerns of U.S. and Soviet negotiators Not surprisingly each side's agenda was dominated by weapon systems that figure prominently in the other's development program The author concludes by summarizing and comparing American and Soviet quests for stability and drawing up an assessment of US efforts in both SALT and START to use arms control negotiations as a kind of classroom for instructing Soviet officials in American notions of stabilizing versus destabilizing weapon technology and America's own ethnocentric view of stability START will profoundly affect the acquisition operation maintenance and cost of US strategic nuclear forces well into the next century The history and analysis presented here will provide an essential source to policymakers and students of military political relations for much needed further study of this treaty's implications
