Remote Sensing of the Earth from Space: Atmospheric Correction Kirill Y. Kondratyev, Vladimir V. Kozoderov, Oleg I. Smokty, 2013-11-11 The monograph being proposed for the English speaking research community is concentrated on the atmospheric correction of satellite images as a part of thematic interpretation procedures while processing remote sensing data. For linguistic reasons, a large section of the community may have been unaware of the progress made in Russia in this field of science and technology. Meanwhile, Russia was the first country to launch the first artificial satellite in 1957 and to obtain from space for the first time spectra of the Earth's atmosphere in the 1960s. New applications of the radiation transfer theory for the atmosphere underlying surface system appeared first in Russia in the 1970s. Direct and inverse problems of the atmospheric optics were then formulated, giving the scientific basis for studies of natural resources from space. Since that time, new mathematical treatments for the atmospheric correction procedures have been widely developed in Russia, including both analytical and numerical techniques to simulate spectral angular and spatial distributions of the outgoing radiation in visual and infrared regions. The authors of the book were at the beginning of the scientific approach. A wide range of mathematical improvements to elaborate polynomial approximations for dependencies between atmospheric radiation field and parameters of space surveying was due to the necessity to process satellite images in real time using special software of existing computer means for the studies.

The Earth Manfred Gottwald,2024-11-30 About 80 years ago it was possible for the first time to confirm what modern science had suggested for centuries Earth shows its sphericity based on a curved horizon The following age of space flights opened other opportunities First our home planet could be observed from low Earth orbits and then a while later even from the distance of the Moon Interplanetary space flights even shifted our perspective out into the universe Images sent back from many spacecraft showed how Earth and its Moon are part of the solar system This book is a journey away from Earth but always looking back at it The journey starts with balloon flights reaching the stratosphere followed by the tedious attempts to reach space When space flight in low Earth orbits had been achieved frequent unmanned and manned missions covered that region Further milestones reached geostationary orbit and the Moon Interplanetary missions allowed us to become acquainted with large parts of the solar system They showed us how unique our home planet Earth is A photo from a distance of 6 billion kilometers the famous pale blue dot always reminds us of this fact The translation was done with the help of artificial intelligence The author has subsequently revised the text further in an endeavour to refine the work stylistically
