Harlem Mosaics Whit Frazier, 2021-05-20 The year is 1927 and Zora Neale Hurston and Langston Hughes are feverish with youth gin and artistic ambition They are riding high on the achievements of the Harlem Renaissance the most dynamic and shocking literary movement in American history To make their mark on the world they decide to write an authentic African American opera rooted in the folktales and songs of the South Despite these lofty ambitions the messiness of everyday life and the pressures of patronage get in the way The blues opera Hughes and Hurston work so hard on never materializes At first it's simply reduced to a play Then its very ownership is brought into dispute Eventually Hughes and Hurston's friendship comes to a final and irreparable end Through all their arguments love affairs discussions and diversions

the characters work to create a new modernism that is both accessible and relevant to contemporary Black life and to the generations of readers and writers artists and poets both Black and white to follow Harlem Mosaics is a fictional reimagining of true events In lyrical prose that evokes the heady 1920 s it tells a story that reads as a cautionary tale a love story and a social novel reintroducing us to these brilliant and important artists The novel includes an introduction by Marc Primus of the Afro American Folkloric Troupe who knew and produced the works of both Langston Hughes and Zora Neale Hurston

Understanding Society and Natural Resources Michael J. Manfredo, Jerry J. Vaske, Andreas Rechkemmer, Esther A. Duke,2014-06-11 In this edited open access book leading scholars from different disciplinary backgrounds wrestle with social science integration opportunities and challenges This book explores the growing concern of how best to achieve effective integration of the social science disciplines as a means for furthering natural resource social science and environmental problem solving The chapters provide an overview of the history vision advances examples and methods that could lead to integration The quest for integration among the social sciences is not new Some argue that the social sciences have lagged in their advancements and contributions to society due to their inability to address integration related issues Integration merits debate for a number of reasons First natural resource issues are complex and are affected by multiple proximate driving social factors Single disciplinary studies focused at one level are unlikely to provide explanations that represent this complexity and are limited in their ability to inform policy recommendations Complex problems are best explored across disciplines that examine social ecological phenomenon from different scales Second multi disciplinary initiatives such as those with physical and biological scientists are necessary to understand the scope of the social sciences Too frequently there is a belief that one social scientist on a multi disciplinary team provides adequate social science representation Third more complete models of human behavior will be achieved through a synthesis of diverse social science perspectives

Nutrition in Early Life Jane B. Morgan, John W. T. Dickerson,2003-04-04 The publication of the Department of Health White Paper The Health of the Nation 1992 and Our Healthier Nation 1998 gave emphasis to the importance of nutritional health of the nation at all ages It is clear that the achievement of specific targets for pregnancy and infancy as set out in the White Paper will involve the training of all health care professionals in nutrition education This book responds to the challenge and focuses on good nutrition for and during pregnancy in low birth weight infants and during infancy It has a strong public health emphasis dealing with health prevention issues for the Nation s younger population The text is written as a scientific reference book for those seeking to apply science in the support of a successful pregnancy and in the prevention of nutritional problems during foetal and early post natal life The importance of optimal nutrition during these periods of life is emphasised by the overwhelming evidence that nutritional problems in early embryonic life may cause congenital malformations and during late foetal life and early post natal life may set the molecular programme for later disease development
