QUESTION I have a 1994 Ford Explorer with 100,000 miles. The engine is a 4.0 liter V6. I have been having problems with the engine lately. It seems to be running rough and the oil pressure is low. I have changed the oil and filter, but the problem persists. What could be the cause of this?

ANSWER The most common cause of a rough running engine and low oil pressure is a worn oil pump. The oil pump is responsible for circulating the oil throughout the engine. If the pump is worn, it will not be able to maintain the proper oil pressure, which will result in the engine running rough. I would recommend that you have the oil pump inspected by a qualified mechanic. If the pump is found to be worn, it should be replaced. Additionally, you should check the oil level regularly and change the oil and filter at the recommended intervals.
