Few heroes die peacefully
in their beds after long lives filled with happiness.

Some Die In Their Beds:

Ἀνθρωποκτονου τάφος. Or, the Bloody and deceitfull man's fall. Wherein the portraitures of murtherers and hypocrites are lively represented ... By J. Shorris,2012-01-09 If Adam is the archetype of man and Eve of woman then the serpent who sold the apple to Eve in the Garden of Eden was the first salesman all culture and commerce flow from that act In this groundbreaking book on the nature and meaning of the sale Earl Shorris takes us on a journey that starts in Eden and comes at last to a consideration of where we are and what we have become by the late twentieth century when selling finally became the dominant human activity Shorris focuses on the perfection of this particular art in America where the vast frontier with its isolated settlements cast the salesman in a heroic role he was literally the bearer of culture the source of a panoply of needed and wanted items everything from parasols to plowshares He was Prometheus All of this changed dramatically in the years following World War II when it dawned on manufacturers and sellers that the American economy was producing more goods than people wanted or needed Demand would have to be created in order to sustain the expansion of markets and then as the economy became oversold the role of the salesman changed his task was now to kill the competition The argument of this brilliant work draws on classical philosophy contemporary politics psychology and economics it is grounded in the author s long experience as an advertising executive and consultant to major corporations His firsthand observations and interviews with salesmen of every description form the anecdotal bedrock of the narrative which is further enlivened by a series of fictions in which salesmen practice aspects of their trade Out of these stories and insights emerges a chilling new paradigm of human life in our times that of Homo vendens Shorris shows us how America became a nation of salesmen and what this means to our economy our politics our culture and our character especially our freedom to live as dignified persons Intimate Pages of Mexican chapters addressing prison punishment incarceration reentry and reintegration embedded in the context of the ever evolving discussion around ending mass incarceration The effects of the exponential prison growth in the United States over more than 50 years have been catastrophic resulting in disparities that especially plague the poor communities of color and women Mass incarceration is a culmination of policies and practices that benefit the privileged praxis and consequently disproportionately disenfranchise marginalized communities The ideology affects every stage of the criminal justice system from policing to release and this book meets the need to expand the examination beyond departments of corrections to explore the administration behind laws biased practices and an unforgiving societal stigma It deepens comprehension and engagement with concise and accessible readings that offer nuance and provoke thought The book is ideal as a primary or supplementary textbook for corrections prisons or penology courses as well as courses focused on law policy sociology social work and social justice It also will serve as a valuable reference book for any individual searching for knowledge on the past present and future of mass incarceration
