The American Historical Review John Franklin Jameson, Henry Eldridge Bourne, Robert Livingston Schuyler, 1920 American Historical Review is the oldest scholarly journal of history in the United States and the largest in the world Published by the American Historical Association it covers all areas of historical research Some Sources of Human History William Matthew Flinders Petrie, 1919 Books of 1912-, 1922 The Sources of Normativity Christine M. Korsgaard, 1996-06-28 Ethical concepts are or purport to be normative They make claims on us they command oblige recommend or guide Or at least when we invoke them we make claims on one another but where does their authority over us or ours over one another come from Christine Korsgaard identifies four accounts of the source of normativity that have been advocated by modern moral philosophers voluntarism realism reflective endorsement and the appeal to autonomy She traces their history showing how each developed in response to the prior one and comparing their early versions with those on the contemporary philosophical scene Kant's theory that normativity springs from our own autonomy emerges as a synthesis of the other three and Korsgaard concludes with her own version of the Kantian account Her discussion is followed by commentary from G A Cohen Raymond Geuss Thomas Nagel and Bernard Williams and a reply by Korsgaard The Course of Human History: Johan Goudsblom, David M Jones, Stephen Mennell, 2015-03-04 This text explores four major features of human society in their ecological and historical context the origins of priests and organised religion the rise of military men in an agrarian society economic expansion and growth and civilising and decivilising trends over time The General Magazine and Historical Chronicle ,1741 International Institutions in World History Laust Schouenborg, 2016-12-08 The discipline of IR has always suffered from a parochial occupation with the state and the Western system of states This book presents a case for a basic reorientation of IR away from the state and towards the study of social institutions in the sense of patterned practices ideas and norms rules The argument is that the state is an inherently modern phenomenon a modern social institution and that foundational concepts in IR should be based on a full appreciation of the wider record of human existence on earth trans historically and cross culturally This book will interest scholars and students within IR particularly IR theory anthropology archaeology and sociology Science and Technology in World History William E. Burns, 2020-02-07 This encyclopedia offers an interdisciplinary approach to studying science and technology within the context of world history With balanced coverage a logical organization and in depth entries readers of all inclinations will find useful and interesting information in its contents Science and Technology in World History takes a truly global approach to the subjects of science and technology and spans the entirety of recorded human history Topical articles and entries on the subjects are arranged under thematic categories which are divided further into chronological periods This format along with the encyclopedia's integrative approach offers an array of perspectives that collectively contribute to the understanding of numerous fields across the world and over eras of development Entries cover discussions of scientific and technological innovations and theories historical vignettes and important texts and individuals throughout the world From the discovery of fire and the innovation of agricultural methods in China to the establishment of surgical practices in France and the invention of Quantum Theory this encyclopedia offers comprehensive coverage of fascinating topics in science and technology through a straightforward historical lens The Constitution of Society Anthony Giddens, 2013-06-28 Anthony Giddens has been in the forefront of developments in social theory for the past decade In The Constitution of Society he outlines the distinctive position he has evolved during that period and offers a full statement of a major new perspective in social thought a synthesis and elaboration of ideas touched on in previous works but described here for the first time in an integrated and comprehensive form A particular feature is Giddens's concern to connect abstract problems of theory to an interpretation of the nature of empirical method in the social sciences In presenting his own ideas Giddens mounts a critical attack on some of the more orthodox sociological views The Constitution of Society is an invaluable reference book for all those concerned with the basic issues in contemporary social theory The Drama of History Kristin Gjesdal, 2021 The Drama of History plumbs the rich relationship between drama and philosophy Kristin Gjesdal offers a lively and accessible discussion of the philosophical aspects of Henrik Ibsen's work. She shows how well-known nineteenth-century philosophers such as Hegel and Nietzsche develop their thoughts in interaction with the dramatic arts. At the heart of this interaction is a shared interest in exploring the existential condition of human life as lived and experienced in history. In this sense, Gjesdal engages philosophy's capacity beyond its narrow academic confines.

The Sources of the Doctrines of the Fall and Original Sin Frederick Robert Tennant, F. R. Tennant, 2012-03-29. This 1903 book is a historical study of the sources and development of the doctrines of the Fall and Original Sin. Written as the companion volume to The Origin and Propagation of Sin, the book deals with the sources of the Hebrew Fall story and the propagation, gathering an array of literature.

SOME SOURCES OF HUMAN HISTORY William Matthew Flinders Petrie, 1922.

Studying the Historical Jesus Bruce David Chilton, Craig Alan Evans, 1998. This coordinated collection of studies provides important critical assessments of recent progress in Life of Jesus research. Topics treated include Jesus and Palestinian politics, the parables and miracles of Jesus, and the Jesus tradition in extracanonical sources.

World Today, 1907.

Time and world politics Kimberly Hutchings, 2013-07-19. This book offers the first authoritative guide to assumptions about time in theories of contemporary world politics. It demonstrates how predominant theories of the international or global present are affected by temporal assumptions grounded in western political thought that fundamentally shape what we can and cannot know about world politics today. The first part of the book traces the philosophical roots of assumptions about time in contemporary political theory. The second part examines contemporary theories of world politics, including liberal and realist International Relations theories and the work of Habermas, Hardt and Negri, Virilio, and Agamben. In each case, it is argued, assumptions about political time ensure the identification of the particular temporality of western experience with the political temporality of the world as such, and put the theorist in the unsustainable position of holding the key to the direction of world history. In the final chapter, the book draws on postcolonial and feminist thinking and the philosophical accounts of political time in the work of Derrida and Deleuze to develop a new, untimely way of thinking about time in world politics.
