Woman in Exile Juliana Starosolska, 2011-05-05 Juliana Starosolska was taken by the Stalinists from her parents home in the western Ukrainian city of Lviv and deported in a sealed boxcar to a distant and primitive outpost in Siberian Kazakhstan In Woman in Exile she records her ordeals in a series of vignettes that capture the horrific the humane and even the occasionally humorous aspects of her experience Her father was arrested by the Stalinists and sent to a forced labor camp deep in Russian Siberia where he died less than two years later In the spring of 1940 the rest of his family who had remained behind in Ukraine Juliana her frail mother Daria and her brother Ihor were forcibly deported by the Soviet government They were forced to live and work under the most brutally primitive and backbreaking conditions After the death of her mother and the reassignment of her brother to a different part of Kazakhstan Juliana found herself alone When World War II ended as a former Polish citizen Juliana was allowed to leave Kazakhstan for Poland in 1946 She immigrated to the United States in 1967 where she resumed her journalistic and literary career Now she tells the story of those difficult years of her time as a Woman in Exile Wi Bill Reed, 2020-01-03 Surely you remember Wi a name especially chosen to fit our attention spans The world record kidnapee nabbee swipee snatchee hoisted so many times even he's lost count How about those three times in five minutes effort That takes rare raw talent that does I mean if it wasn't for our Wi how many of these yabbers yarns shaggy dogs and yank your chain whoppers could I trot out for you Even getting across one's not easy when it's always against the wind from people laughing in your face No really without our Wi where would all the odd balls be drowning their sorrows by ingesting the food in Dominic's Eatery swallowing whole mouthfuls without a thought for their own safety Would any plate get the Wi wipe and come out miraculously unscathed from what had been just laid upon it Without Wi how many screwballs could have hired him to do all they've always wanted to do God knows and the Talls say God knows because if you take it that God made him in His own image then maybe you've stumbled across the one time God spoke too soon Okay setting that aside coming to you is a cast of Lankan characters and you'd cast too and barf and burp if you had some of Dominic's food inside you let's not kid ourselves Not all of us have cast iron guts and can absorb what could canonize you if you kept it down And our Wi can't help being White either Did he ever ask for the hoists he's had to suffer or complained about the lack of duty of care his kidnappers have shown him their kidnapee after all No All he asked was a hideaway high above the stars so bright At least he got that And though having to watchfully wait at least he received the epiphs too With the epiphs he could epiphicatedly dream so I guess he had something going for him And let's not forget he's Talls recorded as having said Just let me know if I'm breathing too much and I'll stop Hey what kidnapee or country like Australia gets a kidnapee so considerate Is he a peach of a pooch or what Bill Reed is an Australian novelist playwright and short story writer with national awards for all three He now lives in both Australia and Sri Lanka Ella and Alora and the Secret Well Kathryn O'Dwyer, 2025-01-22 After their extraordinary travels during their last summer vacation sisters Ella 11 and Alora 8 cannot wait to see what other discoveries might be waiting for them when their mother takes them back to her friend's house for a visit It was there on a hidden patio that the girls had discovered a secret drain last year with a hidden staircase that had led them to extraordinary places all over the world But surely such a magical experience couldn't happen more than once Right Think again After a special dinner at the home of neighbours of their mother's friend the sisters are given permission to go outside to play While exploring the property they come across an old abandoned wishing well that seems oddly familiar built with the same stone as the wall around the secret drain down which their previous summer's adventure had begun And inside the same magical glow How could they resist So begins their next adventure taking them around the world to even more amazing places and meeting even more interesting guides from a crying gecko on Easter Island to an enormous and oddly purring crane in China not to mention the monkey in Cambodia or the quiet and gentle little elephant at the Taj Mahal in India The second book in the Extraordinary Travels of Two Sisters series Ella and Alora and the Secret Well is a story of adventure as entertaining as it is educational taking its readers on a tour of some of the world's most awe inspiring sights while showcasing the importance of understanding and inclusivity and the need to take proper care of our wildlife ourselves each other and the wider world around us
