The Most Interesting Stories of all Nations: French Novels Various Authors,2020-09-28 At the beginning of the summer of 1850 a Russian nobleman Count Kostia Petrovitch Leminof had the misfortune to lose his wife suddenly and in the flower of her beauty She was his junior by twelve years This cruel loss for which he was totally unprepared threw him into a state of profound melancholy and some months later seeking to mitigate his grief by the distractions of travel he left his domains near Moscow never intending to return Accompanied by his twin children ten years of age a priest who had served them as tutor and a serf named Ivan he repaired to Odessa and then took passage on a merchant ship for Martinique Disembarking at St Pierre he took lodgings in a remote part of the suburbs The profound solitude which reigned there did not at first bring the consolation he had sought It was not enough that he had left his native country he would have changed the planet itself and he complained that nature everywhere was too much alike No locality seemed to him sufficiently a stranger to his experience and in the deserted places where the desperate restlessness of his heart impelled him he imagined the reappearance of the obtrusive witnesses of his past joys and of the misfortune by which they were suddenly terminated He had lived a year in Martinique when the yellow fever carried off one of his children By a singular reaction in his vigorous temperament it was about this time that his somber melancholy gave way to a bitter and sarcastic gaiety more in harmony with his nature From his early youth he had had a taste for jocularly a mocking turn of spirit seasoned by that ironical grace of manner peculiar to the great Moscovite nobleman and resulting from the constant habit of trifling with men and events His recovery did not however restore the agreeable manners which in former times had distinguished him in his intercourse with the world Suffering had brought him a leaven of misanthropy which he did not take the trouble of disguising his voice had lost its caressing notes and had become rude and abrupt his actions were brusque and his smile scornful Sometimes his bearing gave evidence of a haughty will which tyrannized over by events sought to avenge itself upon mankind Murder
