Rupert Brooke, Charles Sorley, Isaac Rosenberg, and Wilfred Owen Lorna Hardwick, Stephen Harrison, Elizabeth Vandiver, 2024-04-22 Rupert Brooke Wilfred Owen Isaac Rosenberg and Charles Sorley all died in the First World War They came from diverse social educational and cultural backgrounds but for all of the writers' engagement with Greek and Roman antiquity was decisive in shaping their war poetry The world views and cultural hinterlands of Brooke and Sorley were framed by the Greek and Latin texts they had studied at school whereas for Owen who struggled with Latin classical texts were a part of his aspirational literary imagination Rosenberg's education was limited but he encountered some Greek and Roman literature through translations and through mediations in English literature The various ways in which the poets engaged with classical literature are analysed in the commentaries which are designed to be accessible to classicists and to users from other subject areas The extensive range of connections made by the poets and by subsequent readers is explained in the Introduction to the volume The commentaries illuminate relationships between the poems and attitudes to the war at the time in the immediate post war years and subsequently They also probe how individual poems reveal various facets of the poetry of unease the poetry of survival and the poetics of war and ecology References to the accompanying online Oxford Classical Reception Commentaries will enable readers to follow up their special interests This volume differs from the shorter volume Greek and Roman Antiquity in First World War Poetry Making Connections in that it covers the whole output of the four poets and not just their war poems Alien in the Chapel George Goemoeri, 2016-07-14 Poems and letters by Ferenc Bekassy a World War I poet whose English poems have been compared with Rupert Brooke a close friend but were ignored after his early death fighting against the Allies Socialism, Sex, and the Culture of Aestheticism in Britain, 1880-1914 Ruth Livesey, 2007-10-18 This book examines the lives and works of a group of writers at the heart of the revival of the socialist movement in Britain It examines the beliefs and sexual politics of familiar figures like William Morris and George Bernard Shaw alongside those of lesser known writers and activists like Edward Carpenter and Isabella Ford

Now All Roads Lead to France: A Life of Edward Thomas Matthew Hollis, 2012-10-22 Winner of the Costa Biography Award a fascinating exploration of one of the twentieth century's most influential poets Edward Thomas was perhaps the most beguiling and influential of the war poets This haunting account of his final five years follows him from his beloved English countryside to the battlefield in France where he lost his life When he met the American poet Robert Frost in 1913 Thomas was tormented by feelings of failure in his work and in his marriage With Frost's encouragement he began writing poem after poem as he finally found the expression for which he had spent his life searching But the First World War put an ocean between them Frost returned to New England while Thomas enlisted and went to fight in France It is these roads taken and not taken that are at the heart of this unforgettable book which culminates in Thomas's tragic death on Easter Monday 1917 Now All Roads Lead to France encompasses an astonishingly creative moment in English literature when London was a battleground for new ambitious writing A generation that included W B Yeats Ezra Pound Robert Frost and Rupert Brooke was making it new vehemently and pugnaciously and this dazzling biography places Thomas firmly in their midst The Selected Letters of Charles Whibley Damian Atkinson, 2018-06-11 The scholar Charles Whibley was born in 1859 and died in 1930 straddling the end of the Victorian age the new century and the Great War and its aftermath After completing his studies at Cambridge his early journalistic experiences were with the critic poet and editor William Ernest
